Ag Day salutes farmers

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

LANCASTER — Agriculture Day 1982, a nationwide program to promote greater awareness of the contributions and needs of the American farmer and his occupation, will be celebrated this Thursday.

The day, appropriately titled "Agriculture — It's Your Heartbeat America," is directed nationally by the Agriculture Day Foundation and administered by the Agriculture Council of America.

According to Sam Smith, dean of Penn State's College of Agriculture, the day is "an occasion to remind other Americans of the strength of agriculture and of its needs."

It's also a day to share with consumers the facts about working in an industry that is absolutely vital for their survival — a characteristic few other enterprises can claim.

This year's observance will employ certain statistics in its campaign to educate the consumer:

—Agriculture employs 22 percent of the U.S. work force; 23 million men and women hold jobs in the U.S. food system, from the farmers who produce the food, to the businesses that supply them, to the processors and retailers who help get it to the consumer.

—Agriculture is the number one inflation-fighter; Americans pay an average of 16 percent of their income on food, less than citizens of any other major industrial nation. In addition, it is the world's most varied and highest-quality food supply.

—Agriculture is the nation's number one industry; last year it had total assets of $1.1 trillion.

—Farmers are so efficient that they feed 226 millon Americans and still have enough to feed 144 million people abroad; last year the U.S. exported about $45 billion in farm commodities — cutting the trade deficit in half by paying for oil, automobiles, electronics, vital raw materials, and other major imports.

According to the Agriculture Day Foundation, the day will feature hundreds of events, from special messages on the side of PFA crusade takes farm message to D.C.

BY SHEILA MILLER

WASHINGTON, D.C. — More and more these days, farmers are trading in their overalls and donning their Sunday best suits. Befittingly dressed, they climb inside their pickup trucks or washed and waxed sedans and leave their farms behind for a crusade to our nation's capital.

These treks to the big city are not purely social missions. Instead they are well-planned, purposeful trips to the home of the country's lawmakers.

And, once they've wound their way through the maze of concrete streets that defy even the most direction-oriented pathfinder, these transformed farmers set out in the direction of the landmark dome that marks the place where political decisions are made each day.

Realizing the consequences of these legislative decisions (made for the most part by men and women who have seldom if ever set food in a plowed field) have a profound impact on their agricultural existence, these missionaries of the farming world attempt to bring their message to perhaps otherwise unenlightened, indifferent legislators.

This week, more than 200 members of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association took part in such a mission. These Keystone State crusaders rallied here at the Quality Inn on Wednesday and Thursday to plan their strategies and to present the farming facts to Pennsylvanian Congressmen and Senators, or legislative aides when representatives were unavailable.

The farmers didn't go into the face-to-face meetings with legislators unprepared. They were briefed on the legislative issues affecting the farm community by PFA and American Farm Bureau Federation coaches.

"Today Washington is more a town of questions rather than answers as it was in years before," commented PFA Administrative Secretary Richard Newpher as he primed the farmers for an afternoon of persuasion. He described the nation's capital as a place where farmers used to come to seek money, but said it is now the place of the "buddy system."

Laughing, he explained that the answer Washington gives now when people come looking for money has changed to "Not me, buddy." This new federalism attitude, stated Newpher, has been the AFBF policy for years. He noted PFA supports the Reagan administrations' program to reduce federal expenditures and its deficit budget.

Leading a group of 5 other farmers, Lancaster dairyman John Barley struck out for the Capitol to meet with Senator H. John Heinz III. Lending their support to the legislative effort were Elizabeth Collins, a mushroom grower from Chester County; Hank Swartz, a dairyman from Susquehanna County; Harold Kulp, a dairyman from Chester County; Paul McPherson, a grain and fruit grower from York County; and Gilbert

BY DONNA TOMMELLEO

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Milk Producers Federation board of directors, last week, unanimously approved two self-help programs designed to increase dairy sales and stablize market prices, said NMPF spokesperson Doni Dondero.

Both proposals, which require assessments, must meet with Congressional approval, however, and Dondero reported that U..S. dairy farmers may be affected by at least one proposal as early as October 1, 1982.

The Price Stabilization program, targeted for the fall, is a two-tier pricing system, administered by a dairy board in consultation with the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture. According to Dondero, the program will be based on a beginning year estimated surplus level.

For example, if the national surplus is estimated at 10 percent, farmers would receive full market price for 90 percent of their milk. The remaining 10 percent will receive a reduced price, related to the world market price.

The difference between the full market price and the world price will be collected into a fund. The money will be used to purchase the portion of milk not used in federal programs.

"We're trying to find some equitable way of breaking up the country," Dondero reported. She said the program will take into consideration volume and geography.

Through ownership of the excess product, the dairy board will seek to market the milk through foreign and domestic markets. The proposal requires maintaining the current support price of $13.10 throughout the year. Beyond that, said Dondero, the support level of parity will be provided for in legislation.

The second program approved by the NMPF board is the Product Promotion proposal which requires a national referendum. Dondero said U.S. dairy farmers could vote on a five cent per hunderweight check-off, by early 1983.

Generated funds will be used to

U.S. seed exports reach $111.5 million

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. exports of seeds for planting totaled $111.5 million for July-December, 1981. That's 17 percent below a year earlier.

December exports of $39.6 million were 2 percent below December 1980. High interest rates and generally good supplies in importing countries as well as the strength of the U.S. dollar contributed to the slower export movement especially for forage seeds.

Vegetable seed exports continued strong for this period with a value of $45.3 million, 41 percent of total seed exports. Forage seed exports were sluggish totaling $28.8 million, 19 percent below the first half of the 1980-81 marketing year.

Grain and miscellaneous seed exports increased during December, bringing the six-month totals for corn to $16.7 million; sorghum, $6.7 million, soybean, $2.2 million and sugar beet seeds to $800,000.

Mexico continues as the leading individual country market for U.S. seeds this year with $18.1 million through December, 16 percent of total exports.

Ag Day, right medicine for 'farm'acists

Feel like doing a little celebrating this week?

Now if you say American farmers have nothing to celebrate — which is understandable considering the predictions for '82 grain, livestock and milk prices — you'll be surprised to learn you're wrong "

Next Thursday, March 18, has been declared National Ag Day — a time for farmers, legislators, and other U.S. citizens to pay homage to the industry that feeds us all

But don't expect a hooplah if this year's Ag Day is anything like the first one celebrated last year Except for a few remote festivities, like the naming of an Ag Day Baby in York County, last year's Ag Day was about like any other day of the year And this year it's a sure bet Ag Day will be upstaged by Afghanistan Day which President Reagan has announced will be marked on March 21

Even before our nation's attention was turned toward the Middle East, the mood in Washington D.C was not humming a happy tune for farmers So, forget your noisemakers and paper hats

Rather than worrying about how they're going to keep us down on the farm, Congressmen and Cabinet members have their attentions focused on how they are going to come up with the 'magic' plan to cut the federal deficit and get our nation's economy back on its feet They're so busy arguing over whose ideas are more ridiculous, they are failing to pay attention to the one industry that is essential for our country's economic well-being.

As its theme implies — "Agriculture. it's your heartbeat America" — Ag Day is a celebration of 'farmacists' — those people who fill our nation's prescription for life-sustaining food and exports By failing to monitor our nation's vital signs through the agriculture, U S legislators are creating an economic health hazard. If they continue the same kind of support for the farm community in 1982 as they did in 1981 (remember the Farm Bill?), agriculture's heartbeat will need more than a pacemaker to get it beating again

Although some Washington politicians feign an awareness of agriculture's importance and recite speeches that announce agriculture is the nation's biggest industry with assets equal to about 88 percent of the capital assets of all U.S manufacturing corporations, that's where it seems to stop.

Perhaps it's because farmers only represent 5 percent of the nation's voting public, and perhaps it's because farmers don't have the funds to match the lobbying efforts of other industries, but most legislators tend to turn a deaf ear when this nation's agronomic minority at long last cries out for help.

But, politicians are not the only ones who fail to realize the dire straits American farmers are facing. The editor of the Wall Street Journal on Monday scoffed at the House Agriculture Committee's adopted program that ignored President Reagan's requested 20 percent cutback He stated that this agricultural program "represents $2 billion or maybe $5 billion in aid to wealthy landowners "

Now, as an editor for one of the nation's most respected economic journals, you would think he could understand farmers aren't getting rich just owning land — they've got to farm it, and that takes money which they haven't been able to recoup from their harvests recently. Most farmers are managing to hang on by living off their equity, and banks are becoming more and more reluctant to extend credit based on acres that don't return liquid assets.

It's about time more of our farming ranks follow the example of over 200 Pennsylvania Farmers' Association members who spent two days this week bending the ears of our state's Washington D.C legislators. These folks are as accessible as feed salesmen, equipment dealers or bankers They need to hear our "complaints" about how tough it is to stay in farming these days a lot more than another sympathetic farmer.

So just in case you feel the urge to pick up the telephone or write to your legislator next week and want to embellish your arguments with a few Ag Day facts, here are a few points you might like to share

- It takes about 22 percent of the nation's labor force to keep the U.S food and fiber industry rolling — that comes to about 23 million people;
- To get the job of farming done, 3 7 million Americans have to rise and shine each morning — that's as many people who trudge out to work in the transportation, steel, and automobile industries combined;
- One out of every five people employed in private enterprise has a job that's related to American agriculture,
- Today's farmer provides food and fiber for roughly 67 people while during the Roaring '20s one farmer supplied only 10 other people with food — and then there wasn't much selection in either quality or variety.

Along with voicing our concerns, these are just a few of the accomplishments U.S. farmers need to boast about. We need to convince our nonfarm neighbors that its essential for us to continue in our fields of expertise. Friendships and bonds formed now may help to ensure that future generations of Americans will have a reason to celebrate March 18, Ag Day

As USDA's Assistant Secretary of Economics William Lesher said recently while addressing the House Ag Subcommittee, "It is important for all of us to remember that few resources are as important to the strength of this country as the farmers who work American soil — our most precious natural resource "

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W ALTHOUSE

MAKING AN OPENING

March 14, 1982

Background Scripture:
Mark 2:1-12.
Devotional Reading:
2 Corinthians 13:5-10.

Some times the ministry of Jesus to an individual was quite simple. Perhaps it was a sermon, or a teaching session, or even a personal encounter with the Christ. Others came to him for healing, nothing more. But often Jesus ministered to a person on several levels, instead of just one.

An example is the paralytic to whom he ministers in Capernaum, as in Mark 2. This man was a kind of split-level patient: his needs were both physical and spiritual and Jesus ministered to him on both levels. The man had a paralyzed body and a soul laden with guilt. Jesus healed both body and soul and made the paralytic a whole person.

Because of the Crowd

Today the church might be satisfied with ministering to the man's soul. Our healing might go no further than the assurance that "your sins are forgiven." We would likely send the patient to a doctor to take care of the physical problems.

The gospel of Jesus Christ is concerned, however, with people's minds, bodies, and souls. If Jesus found that a person's problem was a diseased body, he ministered to that need. If he found the problem to be a sick mind, he ministered to that need. If it was a spiritual sickness, he ministered accordingly. But Jesus was concerned with the whole person, not just a part of him or her. He knew that the message of God's healing, saving love applied to every level of human existence.

Still, something else was required in this situation. Something more than Christ's concern for the split-level patient himself. Jesus was preaching to the crowd and the press was so great that the paralytic could never have gotten close to him. Healing would have been denied him because of the crowd. Often this is true in our own lives: we are kept from realizing the wholeness that God wants for each of us, not because his healing love is limited, but because something gets in the way

They Made An Opening

Thus, what was required above and beyond Christ's healing love was the compassion and efforts of others to bring the paralytic close to Jesus. Ordinary friends would have been discouraged by the size of the crowd surrounding him, but these friends were tenacious in their determination to bring their friend to Jesus. Blocked by crowds from the doors and windows, they made an opening in the roof and lowered the patient. That's what impressed Jesus and made possible the healing that day on both levels of the man's life:

"My son, your sins are forgiven."

"Rise, take up your pallet and go home."

If we would have Christ heal someone's body or soul or both, we need to remember that sometimes what he requires of us is to make an opening.

To Plan Weed Control Program

Weeds continue to be one of the major factors in reduced crop yields. This is true in the garden as well as in the field. The battle to control weeds is not a new one; years ago cultivation was the only method of weed control. Now, herbicides are widely used for week control. However, we still have too much crop damage from weeds. One of our Agronomists at Penn State told a group recently that for every pound of weeds produced, the crop yield was reduced by the same weight. Some weeds amount to several tons per acre; this means that much less of the desired crop. Plan now for a better weed control program this year

To Be Award Of Rural Crime

Crime in the rural area is climbing very rapidly. Thieves are drawn to rural communities because of the attitude that crime is a city problem, so it's safe to leave your door unlocked. As long as this notion persists, rural areas will remain a thieves' paradise. You can make it less so by forcing a burglar to work harder. Install dead bolt locks on all exterior doors and windows. Keep in mind they only work if you use them.

Get to know your neighbors; they can be a great crime deterrent. Agree to watch their place while they're away and they'll gladly do the same for you. It's important to identify your property. Police won't return items unless they're positively identified. Private gas pumps and storage tanks are popular targets for thieves. Be sure to lock these up whenever you aren't around. Exterior lights around your home, garage and barn will also do a lot to ward off burglars.

To Avoid Soil Compaction

One of the real dangers of being in too big a hurry in getting on the soil in the spring with heavy equipment is that we pack this wet soil so hard that poor yields result. With modern machinery, the weight is much more than a team of horses or mules. As a result we have ground that is as hard as concrete and never recovers. It is important to wait until the soil is dried out sufficiently before taking this heavy equipment over the fields. When the soil is worked too wet, it becomes hard and forms clods. This type of soil structure will not give you the best yields. Don't be in too big of hurry, slow down and leave the weather catch up to you.

To Prune Fruit Trees

Whether you have a few or several hundred fruit trees, orchard pruning need not be delayed until spring. It may be started in colder weather. But it is a good practice to work on the hardiest trees first.

Early pruning can involve some problems from winter injury, but in many cases an early start will be necessary to complete pruning of large orchards before spring. By confining early work to the older, hardier trees, fruit growers can keep injury to a minimum.

Apple and pear trees are the hardiest of the fruits, with plums and sour cheeries next in order. Because peach and sweet cherry trees are most tender, delay their pruning, particularly the younger trees, until later in March.

Exciting new hybrids are coming out of Funk's Comprehensive Breeding System. Seven new G-numbers will be available for 1982 planting. These new hybrids feature genetic diversity to give you stronger protection against the many problems that could occur in your fields. You'll appreciate their stress tolerance, broad adaptability and other risk-reducing advantages.

From early maturity through late-season varieties, we offer our strongest lineup ever. Dependable, high performance hybrids of the "World Yield Leader" family.

1981 was our biggest sales year ever. Why are farmers planting more Funk's G and less of some other brands? Because they appreciate what happens when they put Funk's G-Hybrids to work on their farms.

We're "Makin' Our Move" in the 1980's. Strongly upward. The 80's could become bigger crop years for you, too, as you "Make Your Move" toward more Funk's G.

Ask your Hoffman Seed Man or Funk's G-Dealer about the new "yield stars" and other great Funk's G-Hybrids best suited for you.

Deadline nears for Delaware dairy tour of Europe

NEWARK, Del. — It's time to sign up for third annual Delaware Dairy and Farm Tour of Europe this August. European-born University of Delaware extension dairy specialist George Haenlein will lead a group around the Netherlands (Holland) and Belgium, culminating in a boat trip down the Rhine River into Germany.

Since much of Holland is below sea level, the Dutch use engineering and ingenuity to hold back the sea. Those on the tour will see farming on polders— land that was once under water. The group will visity dairy, vegetable, and flower farms. They'll also see cheese-making at the famous Dutch towns of Edam and Gouda, and view the traditional Dutch method of generating power, the windmill.

Tour members can glide along the canals of Amsterdam, view the Rembrandt treasures of the Rijksmuseum, see china-making at Delft and lace-making at Bruges. Along the way they'll visit castles, a diamond factory, and re-creation of Holland in miniature at Madurodam.

In short, they'll see all the regular tourist highlights of these charming countries, and also get an intensive look at some of the specialized problems of agriculture, including ground water purity and soil erosion.

For further information, contact Haenlein at the University of Delaware, 738-2523. Registration deadline is March 31, 1982.

3 ag preserves eyed

LANCASTER — More than 31,000 acres on 350 farms are tentatively proposed to be included in the first farmland preserves by the Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board.

Three tracts which will receive the initial attention of the board include 9,382 acres in Earl and southwest Ephrata Townships; 13,866 acres in Conoy, East Donegal and West Donegal Townships; and 8,039 acres in Elizabeth, Warwick, Clay and northwest Ephrata Townships.

The board expects to hold hearings by September at which farmers located in or near the areas can suggest additions or deletions to the preserves.

Final implementation of the preserve plan must await passage of a state law permitting counties to grant tax write-offs or levy taxes to support farmland preservation.

The Preserve Board is discussing various forms of payments to farmers in the proposed preserves, including $250 an acre. Purchase of development rights would cover a 25-year period.

"Almost all cows have worms. That's why worming our 18,000 lb herd with TBZ has proved really profitable..."

says Donald Bare, Lancaster, PA

Don Bare milks 60 registered Holsteins at Double Springs Farm in Lancaster, and worms each one with TBZ before she freshens.

"High producers need worming as much, or more than, average cows," says Don Bare. "A cow that's capable of doing 80 to 100 pounds a day after freshening is going to be under an awful lot of stress. And if she's stressed by worms, too, there's not much chance she'll give you that kind of production.

"We proved it on our milking line. We didn't know what some of our cows could really do until we began worming with TBZ® before they freshened."

"Amazing heifers..."

"Our first-calf heifers were coming in from 14,000 to 16,000 lb before we began worming. Now many of our heifers are doing 18,000 and up. People are amazed when we tell them how much they milk. Worming doesn't do it all, of course, but we're sure it helps."

"TBZ...simple program"

"TBZ gives us the simplest worming program on the market. We worm just one time per lactation - before freshening. We just put pellets with TBZ in front of them, on the grain, and they eat it right up.

"All in all, TBZ has proved really profitable.

"Our records show it pays off."

Your dealer, feed supplier, and veterinarian have TBZ in a feed or dosage form that fits your management. Start your prefreshening worming program with TBZ now.

PDA slates milkerendum voting dates

HARRISBURG - Pennsylvania's dairy farmers will vote on a proposed milk marketing program May 8-22, according to State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell. A two-week period was set to give milk producers ample opportunity to cast ballots, which will be mailed to producers several days prior to the referendum.

The referendum is the final step in two years of deliberations among the state's 16,000 dairy farmers to create a self-help program to boost consumption and sales of milk and dairy products.

A sixth and final public hearing on the proposed program is scheduled for Friday, March 12 at 1 p.m. in Room 309 of the Agriculture Building in Harrisburg. Previous hearings were held in Hazleton, Lancaster, State College, Clarion and Donegal. More than 130 dairy farmers testified at these hearings and nearly 600 attended. According to state officials, testimony from dairy cooperatives, which represent about two-thirds of the dairy farmers in Pennsylvania, was very favorable to the program.

On Tuesday, Hallowell sent notice to the general managers of the state's 42 dairy cooperatives of provisions for their voting in the referendum. By law, a dairy cooperative may bloc vote its membership if a bloc vote is approved by the co-op's board of directors and members are notified of the intent to vote this way 30 days before the ballot is cast.

Hallowell told the general managers that the referendum period begins May 8 with a May 22 deadline for ballots to be postmarked. In order for a dairy cooperative to bloc vote its membership, a board meeting for bloc vote approval membership notification must be completed before April 20.

The notification provision is set to allow dairy farmers notice of their cooperative's intent. Individual dairy cooperative members may cast a ballot even if their cooperative does bloc vote.

TIRED OF CLEANING AND REFILLING SUPPLEMENTARY FOUNTS?

SWISH watering systems

SWISH WATERING SYSTEM IS THE ANSWER!

Their chick-size waterer solves man-size problems.

New SWISH SATELLITE™ system waters chicks and poults from day 1

The biggest problem with founts and other supplementary waterers is manpower — the labor needed to clean and hand-fill them. Also, birds don't always get clean, cool, fresh water — which can cause health problems and poor feed conversion.

But now there's the new Swish SATELLITE system.

It attaches to any Swish floor watering system (and most other brands, too), to give you an automatic system that baby birds take to immediately.

And your birds get fresher, cleaner, cooler water that they love to drink. Which means they'll drink more of it. And that means healthier birds.

The Swish SATELLITE also cuts water waste — which means drier litter, less disease.

Whether you're choosing Swish's new SATELLITE system or a complete Swish system to take birds all the way to market, you get the same patented pressure-operated long-life Swish valve. It's known for its trouble-free performance, its durability.

And you get the unique Swish self-cleaning cup. It saves you lots of trouble and the labor cost of frequent cup cleaning. That's because of the patented feature that causes a "swishing" action by the water from the valve. This lifts any feed particles in the bottom of the cup so birds can consume them.

Get the whole story about Swish's new SATELLITE system ... also systems for adult birds.

Breeders buy from the heart at World Relief Sale

LANCASTER — Most cattle sales find prospective buyers digging deep into their pockets. But a special sale held at the Guernsey barn, Thursday, had buyers giving from their hearts.

The second annual Pennsylvania World Relief Heifer Sale raised $85,000 on 87 registered and grade Holstein heifers to help feed and clothe the world's hungry and needy.

There was no indication of a depressed cattle market as more than 180 buyers registered. The Guernsey barn had standing room only, as buyers and well-wishers supported the cause.

All of the proceeds will be channeled through and distributed by the Mennonite Central Committee in Akron, said MCC spokesman John Hostetler.

The top-selling heifer, Manormead Milestone Loraine was purchased by Melvin Kolb of Lancaster for $2,125. Consigned by Leonard Stoltzfus of Douglasville, the fresh heifer is sired by Milestone and out of a Ludvue Fond Tom daughter.

Her S-W-D Valiant heifer calf, born shortly before the sale, was sold twice at $700 each time, an indication of the generousity that abounded during the day.

The calf's first owner was Jesse Gieser of Oregon state, who put her back on the block. Strasburg dairyman Jeff Welk purchased her the second time around.

A yearling heifer, consigned by Don Hostetter, Parkesburg, brought the second top price of $2,000. Purchased by Donald Bare of Lancaster, the Glen Valley Star daughter is out of a very good Wapa Arlinda Conductor.

Dale Hoover of Lebanon paid $1,900 for Ken-Nel Jemini Cindy, consigned by Ken and Nelson Stoner of Lititz. Sired by Jemini, the 3-year-old is out of a Jet Stream daughter and bred to Long-Haven Rorae Mannix.

Lancaster dairyman John Harnish paid $1,600 for a bred heifer consigned by Norman Hertzler of Mechanicsburg. Ru-No Proud Swan is sired by Performer and due in September to Elmsmith Marcus Mariner.

The concept of the Pa. Relief Sale began in 1979, said sale manager Wilmer Kraybill. He recalled the first sale auctioned hay, straw and other farm-related items and grossed $1,800. The next year, the gross doubled and in 1981 the sale committee began looking for heifers. The first state relief sale, last year, grossed $80,000.

"The market may not have been as strong this year," remarked Kraybill, "but we're real pleased with the outcome."

Kraybill and his committee began canvassing the state for consignments more than four months ago. Thursday's sale in-

Donated help was everywhere. This busy threesome of Vernon Kennel, Atglen, Ruth Umble, Atglen, and Simon Kraybill, Elizabethtown, kept the records straight throughout the fund-raiser.

Drink milk for lower cholesterol?

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

STATE COLLEGE — Based on recent scientific findings, including research done at Penn State, some food scientists now believe that drinking milk will lower serum cholesterol.

The food science researchers base that conclusion on their studies that point to a possible cholestrol inhibitor in milk. Known as "orotic acid," this compound of whole milk is a powerful substance — only a fraction of a drop's worth in a whole glass of milk.

That theory is in contrast to several years of diet recommendations by what Robert McCarthy food scientist at Penn State, has labeled "pseudo-intellectual nutritionists," who have named a whole host of foods, including milk and dairy products, as causing heart problems.

And a recent report by the National Academy of Science agrees that recommending across-the-board diet alterations for the general population may not be such a sound idea.

A report published by the National Research Council, in collaboration with the National Academy of Sciences, says that scientists who promote a low-cholesterol diet that is high in polyunsaturated fats may be setting up guidelines for eating that "rest on somewhat shaky foundations."

Approximately 200 prospective buyers registered for sale including recently named Distinguished Junior Holstein member Dan Albright of Perry County.

AGRICULTURE:
IT'S YOUR HEARTBEAT, AMERICA

AGRICULTURE DAY • MARCH 18, 1982

High cholesterol counts has been called the "bad guy" in heart disease on the theory that it causes a build up of fatty deposits in the arteries, causing damage or clogging to the heart's pumping capacities.

But, at the same time, cholesterol is vitally needed by the body, and the lack of proper levels of cholesterol can be fatal. Thus, the body creates its own cholesterol, manufactured by the liver.

Sometimes, though, the liver is not efficient and responsive to the body's needs, and does not cut back cholesterol synthesis to balance the cholesterol obtained in foods.

According to a 1980 article in the THE PENN STATER, titled "Routing the Cholesterol Boogeyman," Penn State researchers McCarthy, the late Gerald Porter, and Ahmed A. Ahmed, a Libyan grad student, doubted that milk was the culprit it was blamed to be.

What had especially caught their attention was a study done in the mid 70's by G.V. Mann, of Vanderbilt University.

Dr. Mann studied the diet of the Masai tribe, a cattle-herding people of Kenya and Tanzania. Staple food of the Masai is milk, about a gallon per person per day, supplemented with occasional protein additions of blood and meat.

While the cholesterol level of an average American is somewhere in the area of 240, tests on the Masai showed levels of 135. And that was on a diet that, according to some cholesterol diet-heart doomsdayers, should have made their chronic cardiac patients of the bulk of the tribesmen.

When Dr. Mann added yogurt to the Masai's diet, the cholesterol levels dropped even further.

What was causing the unexpected low counts? It was a detective search worthy of Sherlock Holmes, since there are some 3,000 known components in milk, including at least 176 fatty acids.

Enter the rat, that familiar whipping boy of modern lab research.

The food scientists sliced rat livers super thin, then added to the tissue amounts of acetic acid marked with radioactive exposure. The liver tissue would take the acetic acid, and use it to manufacture cholesterol, unless stopped by some over-riding compound.

In an over-simplified explanation of the testing, the scientists added various isolated compounds of milk and then measured the liver cultures each for radioactivity. They knew that the compound that cut cholesterol production would have prevented the liver from changing the acetic acid to cholesterol. Thus, the sample with the least traces of radioactivity would point to the compound in milk that inhibits cholesterol production.

The compound was orotic acid.

Scientists aren't yet sure why yogurt cuts cholesterol levels even more, although they speculate that it has some tie to the bacteria that grow from the acid in milk, causing the fermented product.

Further tests, including some by T. Richardson of the University of Wisconsin, suggest that when milk is converted to butter, the cholesterol-inhibitor factor is lost. A goal of additional research is to definitely isolate the compounds in milk that appear to have a cholesterol-lowering capability. Then, such compounds could be restored to dairy products that might lose the cholesterol-inhibiting ability through processing.

In his 1980 presidential address to the American Heart Association's 53rd Scientific Session, Dr. Thomas James warned of his growing concern about easy answers to the heart disease problem, suggesting that the dietary-heart recommendations of the past are questionable, because individuals are so different.

In his speech conclusion, the AHA president admonished physicians that Americans will support medical research for coronary disease, "but that they will do their best and most enthusically when we are forthrightly honest, do not dissemble, do not overpromise, and restrain ourselves from shrill postures and polemical diatribes. The truth is exciting enough."

Thus, research, such as the milk tests at Penn State, is of vital importance in getting at the real truths of the nutrition -- heart disease battle.

Central Md. Guernsey Breeders stress promotion

HARNEY, MD. — Promotion of their cows, their livlihood, their milk and their Guernsey cows was the topic of the Central Maryland Guernsey Breeders Banquet held last Thursday evening, here at the Harney Fire Company.

The program for the evening included a presentation by Ginger Myers, Green Manor Guernseys, Littlestown, Pa. entitled, "Handle Your Promotion with an Advantage." Myers explained why, when, and how to design an effective advertising program for the herd, but reminded the group to promote more than just their cows. She told them they must promote their way of life and their product.

In the business meeting, conducted by Diane Flickinger, members discussed planned activities which include a Guernsey field day to be held at the Frederick County Fairgrounds in late July. A definite date will be announced at a later time.

Lengthy discussion was held on the possibility of holding a Guernsey calf sale perhaps in conjunction with other colored breeds. Maryland Guernsey Princess Karen Chason will present the group's proposal for consideration at the State annual meeting.

Richard E. Cook announced that following retirement of field service territories for A.G.C.C., Robert McLaughlin is once again the fieldman for Maryland.

Elected as directors for 1982 were Diane Flickinger and Ronald Chason-GSM.

Promotion was the topic of discussion at the Central Maryland Guernsey Breeders Banquet held last week at the Harney Fire Hall. The group is considering organizing a colored breed calf sale to supply Guernsey calves to 4-H'ers. Pictured from left: Ronald Chason, newly elected director, Karen Chason, Maryland Guernsey Princess, and Mrs. Diane Flickinger, president and director.

Harrison Williams Jr. (D-N.J.) provided a few extra minutes for the delegation to formulate their positions on subjects including: the need for a constitutional amendment to balance the federal budget, the current food safety laws, highway and waterway user taxes, the Farm Labor Contractors Registration Act, and the Rural Abandoned Mines Program. Their views, of course, reflected the attitudes of PFA as well as AFBF.

Barley informed Heinz that Farm Bureau is supporting a constitutional amendment to balance the budget and limit federal spending to a realistic percentage of the Gross National Product.

After listening receptively to the position, Heinz announced he has been "trying to round up support" for the constitutional amendment resolution which he described as a version of legislation he had introduced earlier. Admitting he felt his amendment resolution was

Dairy supports symposium set

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block has announced a public dairy symposium will be held March 22-23 at the Marriott Hotel in Kansas City, Mo., to gather input for drafting recommendations to Congress about changes in the dairy price support program.

"No final decisions will be made during the symposium," Block said. "Our goal is to gather input from a wide range of knowledeable people about how we can tackle the severe problem of dairy surplus and the increasing costs of government support payments."

Block said the current uncommitted CCC inventory contains 290 million pounds of butter, 581 million pounds of cheese and 920 million pounds of non-fat dry milk. This surplus inventory is still growing, he said.

"Even with the program revisions made within the past year – production is up, demand is flat and the taxpayer is forced to buy the difference," Block said. "This is embarrassing, unacceptable and intolerable. It cannot continue."

Adams Farm Forum probes Right to Farm issues

Dr. Robert Eckrode encouraged farmers not to take the animal welfare issue lightly during the 4th Adams County Farm Forum held last week. He cited Europe where legislation already mandates inspection of private farming enterprises for animal rights violations.

BY GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Staff Correspondent

BUGLERVILLE — With only 2.7 percent of our population engaged in agriculture, how does this minority preserve its right to farm? What protects the farmland from commercial and residential development? How does the minority handle the cries of the animal welfarists and urban neighbors when fewer and fewer people understand the realities of farm practices.

These subjects were pondered at the 4th annual Adams County Farm Forum held recently here at the Penn State Fruit Lab. With the theme "The Right to Farm", the morning session focused on farmland preservation and protection from nusiance complaints while the afternoon session covered issues behind the animal rights movement.

Addressing the group on the current Ag Area Securities Act was Representative Kenneth Cole, Adams County, who was one of the co-sponsors of the act. Rep. Cole stated that this act provides local cluded 87 head from nine counties.

"The spirit of cooperation in really great," said Kraybill.

Kraybill was surrounded by that spirit on Thursday as everything for the charitable sale was donated.

Consignors walked away with the knowledge they could help people less fortunate. The barn crew, tirelessly worked all day on Wednesday, washing and clipping incoming cattle.

Selling and buying cows are hungry work and all the food sold was donated. Hungry buyers consumed 360 pounds of hot dogs, 25 pounds of beef barbeque, 25 pounds of chipped ham, 120 pounds of chicken corn soup, 25 dozen donuts and several gallons of milk.

Food, people and supplies will be provided to needy countries by the Mennonite Central Committe. Last year, the MCC supplied food to 24 countries. Commodities included apples, beans, corn, meat, milk powder, vegetable oil, wheat, peas, lentils and rice.

"Our speciality is sending supplies and money to places where we have people," remarked MCC spokesman John Hostetler.

Hostetler, in charge of material aid distribution, recalled some of MCC's successes.

Thirty years ago in civil war-torn Greece, MCC assistance was used to build up the Greek dairy industry. One of the biggest contributions, said Hostetler, was teaching Greek men and women to can meat and vegatables. A follow-up program in the 1960s proved the MCC efforts successful.

More recently, MCC relief found a home in Bangledesh, a country the size of Wisconsin, but intensely crowded with a population of 90 million. In the past ten years, soybeans have been excepted as a winter crop, giving the people of Bangledesh a better diet. The soybeans don't rob them of their main crop — rice, which is grown in the summer, said Hostetler.

Closer to home, the MCC has been active in assisting the needy of the U.S. and Canada. The MCC will combine proceeds from the heifer sale with funds generated from the upcoming Pa. Relief Sale on Friday, April 2 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. More than 250 quilts will be auctioned in that 26-year-old sale. According to Kraybill, the sale's humble beginnings in Morgantown quickly grew until one year, traffic was backed up on the turnpike and a larger site was needed.

The U.S. will celebrate Agriculture Day on Thursday with this year's theme — It's Your Heartbeat, America. But ask anyone familiar with the MCC and they'll tell you the lifeline courses through the world's veins, as well.

In this day and age, when some folks worry about winning the arms race with other countries, the MCC and it's supporters look beyond a country's borders and into the hearts and homes of its people.

"I want you to share your food with the hungry and bring right into your homes those who are helpless, poor and destitute." (Isaiah 58:7)

Begin with Bladex·Atrazine for superior weed control in reduced tillage.

Which pre-emerge herbicides work best on tough weeds in reduced tillage areas? Answer: A Bladex® herbicide and atrazine combination.

Bladex/atrazine not only stops tough grasses and problem broadleaves, but also provides consistent control of fall panicum, even after it has germinated and emerged.

In fact, a Bladex/atrazine plus liquid fertilizer tank mix provides contact activity on most emerged weeds — and up to 12 weeks of residual control.

So whether you use Bladex/atrazine as your total weed control program, or as a base on which to build your own mixture, you can't start with a more effective pair. Check with your state extension service for specific 3-way 24(c) label recommendations. Always read and follow label directions carefully.

government with the means of protecting its agricultural areas.

Rep. Cole, who has served on the House State Ag Committee for eight years, said, "Pennsylvania is losing 132,000 acres of farmland every year. This act, I hope, will encourage farmers and community leaders to plan for the future." He noted that this is a voluntary program and only part of what needs to be developed as a total farm protection program.

The workings and advantages of the Ag Area Securities Act were detailed for the group by Peter Norton, Extension economist. Norton explained agricultural areas include a minimum of 500 acres with petitioning initiated voluntarily by the landowners. The entire process is handled at the township or borough level. Since the 500 acres may be made up of non-adjacent farmland parcels and may cross township lines, the landowners must petition all the townships involved.

Ag Areas are set up on a 7-year basis during which time landowners may withdraw without penalty. Norton emphasized that the advantages of ag areas are that participating landowners are entitled to special consideration in regards to the impact of local laws on farming operation, modifications of state agency guidelines and rules, and condemnation of farmland by the right of eminent domain.

According to both Cole and Norton, ag areas are to be protected from local and state nusiance ordinances, sheltering normal farm operations unless they endanger the health and safety of the community.

County Agent John Schwartz shared with the group a sampling of complaints that reach his desk. Since Adams County is one of the leading counties in the state for fruit and poultry production, many of these complaints deal with flies and orchard spraying. Schwartz pointed out that urban neighbors have very little understanding or appreciation for normal farm practices.

Further discussing protection from these complaints was John Hoffman, executive director of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, who updated the group on the current status of the Right to Farm Bill.

Having the right to farm also includes have the right to care for animals as farmers see fit, or does it? Herbert Jordan, Penn State

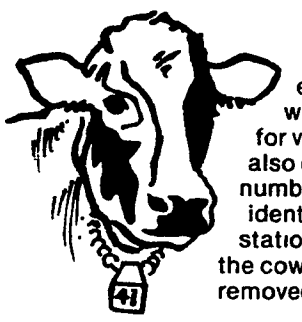
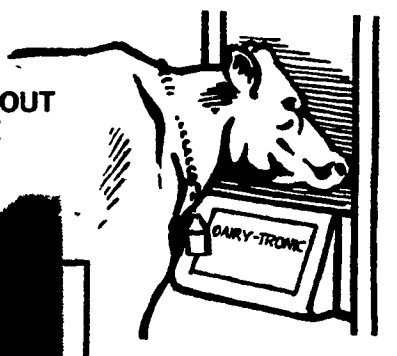
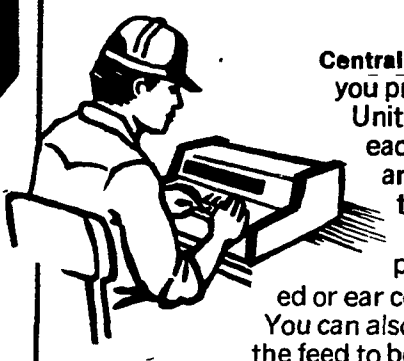
HOW DAIRY-TRONIC™ WORKS



Cow Identification Tag — each cow wears a special tag with her number engraved on it for visual identification The tag also carries the cow's coded number which is read by the cow identifier at each feeding station. Once the tag is placed on the cow, it never has to be removed or changed.



Cow Identifier— when a cow puts her head in a feeder, her identification code is read by the Cow Identifier mounted on the front panel of each feed station. A signal is transmitted back to the Central Control Unit, and the feeder automatically dispenses the correct ration and amount of feed for that particular cow. Feed is dispensed at a controlled rate which matches a cow's normal rate of consumption. If she moves away or is pushed aside feed delivery stops.



Central Control Unit— you program the Central Control Unit for the exact amount of grain each individual cow should receive, and select any combination of up to four different feed rations including concentrate, complete feed, high moisture shelled or ear corn that any cow can obtain. You can also instruct the unit how you want the feed to be dispensed throughout the day. The daily printout will alert you when your cows eat less than its programmed feed level The Central Control Unit may be installed in your house for convenient access.

better, and "pride of authorship", Heinz said he will be supporting the "makeshift but perfectly good amendment" S.J. Res. 58. "Imitation is the most sincere form of flattery," he remarked.

Heinz explained that the current resolution introduced by Republican Senator Strom Thurmond from South Carolina has "married the balanced budget approach with the spending control approach." He continued, "Frankly I feel it's more important to control the growth in government spending than just the balanced budget. You can balance the budget two ways: by either holding down spending or increasing taxes."

Moving on to food safety, Barley pointed out to the Senator that current laws regulating the nation's food supply are too inflexible in the face of new technology that provides greater accuracy in detecting questionable substances, and the need to weigh benefits against risks when passing regulations on f·d additives.

"I'm for good pure food laws," states Heinz, noting his great grandfather was a pioneer of the existing Pure Food and Draw Law, lobbying Congress personally in the early 1900s. "It's my view that it is possible to place unreasonable interpretations on existing law," he said, cautioning, however, that any rewriting of the law would have to be done carefully.

"What we need is a solution that will preserve the basic intent of that law. It may be that legislation is necessary, but I'm not sure," Heinz said. He noted the law was flexible enough to deal with 1970s' saccharin situation, adding that people would have had to drink 300 cans of a soft drink like Tab each day to reach the equivalent amount that was found to be dangerous in rats.

"Clearly, that's unreasonable," he commented. "In general I don't trust the reasonableness of any federal agency. Remember some of the things that have been proposed. A lot just depends on the common sense of people involved."

Concerning the issue of Rural Abandoned Mine Program funds being tied up by the Department of Interior instead of being forwarded to the Department of Agriculture for use in restoring thousands of acres of scarred land in Pennsylvania, Heinz stated he has supported efforts in the past "to get that money broken loose.

Senator H. John Heinz III poses with PFA leaders Keith Eckel, president and Eugene Gayman, vice president in Washington during the farm organization's annual Congresional Meeting trip.

However, due to the budget situation this year I'm not terribly optimistic that we can get that money to be released in large quantity as long as the federal deficit for '82 and '83 looks as bad as it's going to look. The best answer right now is for us to develop within the next 6 weeks a budget for 1983 and a series of actions for future years that will reduce the anticipated federal deficits."

He noted the present budget proposal promises a federal deficit for 1983 of $107 billion and larger deficits in the odd years. "We can't allow that to happen. That's totally unacceptable. We have to do better than that both for the sake of our economy and for the sake of bringing federal spending under control. Until we do that I would feel somewhat hypocritical urging any discretionary program to spend additional monies unless it was a question of life, health or an imminent threat to the environment."

On the subject of highway tax proposals which would channel 2 cents out of the present 4 cent gas tax back to the states, Heinz noted that this is a Reagan proposal under the new federalism policy. Then touching on Secretary of Transportation Drew Lewis' proposal to increase the gas tax by 5 cents, with 1 cent being earmarked for mass transit, Heinz stated he remains undecided on how he will vote. However, he goes against Farm Bureau's position in saying he doesn't have a problem with a portion of the tax going toward mass transit, passenger rail service, or rail electrification. Pointing to the importance of rail traffic in rural areas, Heinz suggested the possibilities of a transportation block grant, not limited as to mass transit.

Addressing the current financial plight of the farm community, Heinz said "I think farmers realize the problems we have today didn't arrive overnight. They've been 25 years, a generation, building through excesses from the last decade or two. And we can't expect an instant overnight solution. By the same token, we have to get the budget under control.

"President Reagan said 'If not now, when? If not us, who?' And the answer is it must be us and it must be now."

Culminating the day of legislative idea sharing, PFA members and the Capitol Hill guests heard the farm organization's president, Keith Eckel, call for "less money available for Congressional spending, less taxes, and less total government." He emphasized agriculture is now Pennsylvania's largest industry and that the state's economic future is interdependent with the economy of Pennsylvania agriculture.

Swine farmers get answers, options with Penn State course

UNIVERSITY PARK — A three-day swine management conference at Penn State, last week, catered to a special group of hog producers.

According to conference chairman Grant Sherritt, 41 producers participated in the seminar which focused on either the novice hog farmers or those producers with no more than a 40-sow operation.

Experts in swine housing, health and nutrition, to name a few fields, shared their knowledge with the new swine farmers. In addition, the beginners in the hog business had a chance to tour the hog facilities at Penn State. Of those attendees, 90 percent rated the ongoing conference excellent, reported Sherritt.

The first day focused on planning a swine operation and incorporating a successful herd health program. Following evaluation and selection of the live hog, the group moved to the meats laboratory to learn more about swine feeding and reproduction.

Second-day management topics included erecting new swine buildings and remodeling old ones, the future for the swine industry, managing the breeding herd and the farrow house and adapting sanitation and health procedures to the herd.

The final day began with a discussion on farm records, business analysis and manure management. The conference concluded with a question and answer session provided by a panel of swine and veterinary experts.

The conference stimulated questions, provided answers and offered alternatives to the beginning farmers.

Conference attendees were asked to consider what operation or combination of operations best fit their plans. Production alternatives — feeder pigs, market weight hogs or breeding stock — require separate facilities.

In addition, the following factors could effect their decision: expansion; neighbors (who may object to noise and odor); regulations (which may dictate or limit building location and waste disposal methods).

Feeder pig production is recommended when:

- available space is limited, but expansion is desired;
- feed supplies for finishing pig are unavailable or costly;
- labor is available, but capital is limited;
- a regular income with low investment is desired;
- there is a local demand for feeder pigs.

Good farrowing facilities are needed in a feeder pig program. A multiple-litter farrowing schedule will supply the most pigs with a given investment in buildings and equipment. Confinement housing will provide the necessary environmental controls.

A second option, farrowing pigs for sale as market hogs, also requires proper farrowing facilities, especially when a large number of pigs will be produced. Separate facilities for each age group is recommended for better disease and evironmental control and waste handling. The number and size of facilities depends on:

- number of sows to be farrowed and the farrowing schedule;
- management system used — pasture, confinement or combination;
- number of pigs desired;
- number of pigs purchased as feeder pigs
- climate of the area.

Farrowing facilities are not needed, however, for producers who buy and finish feeder pigs. This type of operation is recommended when caring for baby pigs is not desired; labor is limited and finishing feeds are available; and there is a reliable source of feeder pigs.

Irregardless of the operation, a producer must consider a host of factors when choosing building locations.

Drainage should be away from the farm home and other buildings. Pasture or feedlot drainage should not enter waterways leading to streams or lakes.

If a producer has future expansion plans, adequate space for more buildings is a must, especially with respect to feed storages. roads water and electric lines.

Producers also looked at the options of pasture versus confinement housing.

Pasture management is most practical for operators who:

- want to feed out pigs with minimum building investment;
- have pasture available for proper rotation for disease control;
- are tenants;
- farrow once or twice a year;
- farrow up to 80 sows a year;

Hogs on pasture should be protected from high temperatures with sun shades, waterers, sprinklers and wallows. They need shelter during cold weather where they can group together for warmth.

Partial or total confinement systems are recommend when:

- top level management is available;
- a multiple-litter farrowing schedule is used;
- large numbers of hogs will be raised;
- labor and available space is limited;
- capital is available.

Producers using confinement housing are able to moderate and stabilize temperatures more easily, and can control certain infectious diseases and parasites.

If you're out to beat anthracnose

That's what SARANAC AR is all about!

The one to plant for top yields in anthracnose country.

Even in sticky, hot, humid weather when anthracnose is sweeping neighboring fields, Saranac AR goes right on producing.

And how it can produce! In April 1980, Herman Espy of Spruce Creek PA, where anthracnose flourishes, seeded five acres in Saranac AR and Pennlate Orchardgrass. The following year, he took four cuttings—in June, July, August and October. His winning yield: 10.7 tons per acre. Next year, Herman plans to seed an additional 35 acres. In Saranac AR, of course.

Saranac AR stands up even to Race II anthracnose, the new virulent strain that can wipe out other anthracnose resistant varieties. Race II is not prevalent today, but if it does take off you will want Saranac AR in your fields.

Bacterial wilt resistance, fast recovery, long-lived stands and top yields are bred into Saranac AR. Add anthracnose resistance, and you've got the only one to plant where anthracnose Race I or Race II is a threat.

promote the sale of dairy products, with an emphasis on manufactured products. However, Dondero noted that the NMPF board did not place a restriction on fluid milk.

"The bottom line is, of course, to increase milk consumption," she said.

Dondero admitted that both proposals will be presented with "loose guidelines," before Congress.

"We took the ideas in concept form to some leadership of ag committees," she said. In addition, a copy has been submitted to U.S. Agriculture Secretary Block.

Dondero said she is hopeful the NMPF can go before Congress with strong, positive support. Currently, the Federation is working on proposal drafts. Certain mechanics, such as who would serve on both dairy boards and how they will be appointed have yet to be "nailed down," she reported.

"The details can be worked out later." she noted. "Let's take care of the principles, first."

Adams Farm Forum

Poultry Flock Management Specialist PSU, said there is someone meddling in the farmer's business and these are the people concerned with animal rights.

Stated Jordan, "Statistics now show that 5-10 percent of the public is concerned with animal rights. I believe that in the next few months we're going to be asked to formulate legislation on these issues. The important thing in formulating that legislation will be to ask the right questions. The bottom line is to ask ourselves what the animal wants, what it needs, and what it has to have."

Jordan pointed out that one of the big questions seems to be whether we are equating animal rights to human rights. He stated that the people who complain are not all wrong. These people question agriculture and its profit motive.

Jordan stressed that the direction any legislation should take to answer those questions would have to address the issue of what are normal farming practices. He continued though, "These people must realize that if we are going to produce higher quality food products, we're going to get more costs into them and we'll have to have a higher price from them."

"Facing the Challenge of the Animal Rights Movement" was discussed by Dr. Robert Eckrode, University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Eckrode, who is on the staff at New Bolton and serves on several national committees concerning animal rights, told the group that the first thing farmers should do is to work on changing the terminology. He urged that the issue be termed animal "welfare" rather than animal "rights" since the latter is highly emotional in its connotations. He encouraged moving away from words such as "factory farming" to preferred "intensive agriculture." He pointed out that farmers are the experts of animal welfare and must do a better job of educating the public about the industry's management techniques.

When confronting the animal welfare issue Dr. Eckrode said farmers have several courses of action. The can ignore it and hope it goes away. They can join the welfare group and attempt to make changes from within. Or, the best option may be to join and support organized farm groups in an attempt to increase awareness of the problem, to set up a dialogue with the animal welfare people and the public, and to provide a rational response to their concerns, Eckrode said.

Berks farmers will participate in pilot programs

LEESPORT — Berks County will be one of about 75 counties nationwide selected to participate in a pilot conservation program, according to Donald E. Lutz, chairperson of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Lutz said the program will test the effectiveness and feasibility of variable levels of cost-sharing for conservation practices. Under the pilot program, Lutz said, "The percentage of the total cost paid by ASCS for establishing on ACP practice on a farm will be based on the amount of soil saved by the practice."

ASCS will use research-based equations to evaluate the effectiveness of conservation practices carried out under ACP. The equations are designed to predict average soil losses from specific field areas based on weather, soil type, slope and cropping and management systems.

In the pilot counties, the equations will also be used to establish the variable rates of cost-sharing, with up to 75 percent of the cost of a practice being paid by the government. The most effective soil conservation practices will earn the higher cost-shares.

A public informational meeting will be held on March 22, 1982, at the Agricultural Center, R1 Leesport, at 10 a.m. Richard A. Pennay, program specialist from the State ASCS Office will be reviewing the new pilot conservation program. Pennay will also be covering the 1982 Reduced Acreage Program, reported Mr. Lutz. This program is a voluntary 15 percent reduced acreage for 1982-crop wheat and 10 percent for 1982-crop feed grains (barley, corn, oats, sorghum). Participants will be required to devote the reduced acreage to conservation uses. Only those who participate will be eligible for program benefits such as possible price deficiency payments, target price protection and Commodity Credit Corporation commodity loans.

Lutz said, "This action will strengthen prices by reducing supplies for the 1982-83 marketing year." All farmers should file their intentions at the ASCS office before April 16. Then they have time to see how the crops and prices develop before giving a final certification later. There is no obligation to filing an intention.

Day salutes farmers

three Goodyear blimps to parades and shopping-mall displays.

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block is scheduled to speak in Washington at a special Ag Day luncheon, followed by a reception on Capitol Hill.

But most farmers and consumers will have to turn to the local level to celebrate in the proclaimed glitter and glamour of Ag Day. They may not see the Goodyear Blimp and they may not get the day off, but they can take part by visiting a nearby school where Agri-Women, teachers and Ag-promotion groups plan special educational programs.

Or they could watch a televison special on farm exports — how they are created and their impact on the economy. Titled "Prosperity in the Balance," the half-hour documentary was shot on location in Germany, China, Korea, and Europe, and will be hosted by veteran-actor Rex Allen.

Highlights of the program include a segment on how the American Soybean Association sold German consumers on the benefits of cooking with soy oil through a promotion program that included work with processors and a communications program targeted at editors and consumers. As a result of the program, soybean oil consumption increased 50 percent, creating an expanded market for U.S. soybeans. Check local television guides for airing times and channels.

Serving as chairman for this year's Ag Day is Secretary Block on the national level while Penrose Hallowell, state Ag Secretary, will be overseeing the festivities here in Pennsylvania.

USDA begins brucellosis rating

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture is implementing a new three-stage method for validating states as free of swine brucellosis.

Eighteen states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands - previously rated as "validated free" — are now designated as "State III" states.

Eleven states are listed in "Stage II," the intermediate level, and 12 are in Stage I, "the entry level. Nine states do not qualify for State I, have no programs, or their programs fall short of entry requirements.

The three-stage system was recommended by the U.S. Animal Health Association, an organization representing state animal health agencies and major segments of the livestock industry. It allows for better overall evaluation and permits individual states to measure progress in comparison with others, Becton said.

The State III — or top level — states include California, Colorado, Idaho, Iowa, Maine, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming plus Puerto Rico and the Virgins Islands.

Stage II, or intermediate level, states are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Louisiana, New York and Virginia.

Stage I — entry level — states are Alaska, Florida, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma and South Carolina.

The nine states with no programs or programs that don't meet entry requirements are Indiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oregon, Tennessee, Texas and West Virginia.

ONLY ONE BOTTOM UNLOADER FOR FORAGE CAN LIVE UP TO THESE STATEMENTS:

- Proven ability to deliver haylage, even haylage with longer chop and longer stem pieces. Lesser unloaders can't do the job.
- Can be moved from structure to structure, even when they are full of feed. This lets one unloader serve two or more structures.
- An 18-year history of proven reliability, long life, and low operating costs. Don't believe exaggerated tall tales from the competition. Ask the man who owns a Goliath.
- Simple design uses one motor (not three). Design is same as that used for heavy-duty coal-mining machines.
- Can be quickly removed for easy service and complete preventive maintenance, even when the structure is full of feed. Grease fittings are on outside and easy to reach. (No need to crawl into a dark, damp tunnel for routine lubrication).
- Can be easily interchanged with other Harvestore unloaders; allows converting the structure to handle different feeds in the future.
- Proven resale value after many years of service.

81-year-old great-great-grandma says

Too old for dolls? Never!

BY PATTY GROSS
Staff Correspondent

Mildred Nocks likes dolls. That may not sound unusual for a young girl, but the Tyrone woman will celebrate her 82nd birthday next month.

Mildred doesn't have time to play with dolls. She is far too busy making them instead. The vivid colors of the "boys and girls" adorn Mildred's apartment. She has no idea how many of the dolls she has made over the years, however, hundreds have found life through Mildred's nimble fingers. The demand and popularity of her products have grown immensely since the first doll she stitched-up back in the 1950's.

The great-great grandmother has not trouble selling or g ng away the dolls. Her 44 gr grandchildren keep the supply low, and Mildred admits she can't keep up with her growing family, which spans 5 generations.

The woman, elderly in age only, likes to keep busy. "I don't like to sit around holding my hands," confides Mildred. At Christmas time she bought herself a new sewing machine.

Many times the Blair County woman designs the dolls herself. It is obvious that Mildred enjoys her work as she lovingly sews the dolls, taking time for the smallest details. One proud pair looks as new as the day she made them 22 years ago.

The dolls, so very lifelike, are freckle-faced and complete with ears, painted finger nails, and hair. An example of the tedious tasks. Mildred says, is the 12 hours she labored securing the hair.

Mildred explains that she has bought felt hats at rummage sales, washed and pressed them, and uses the material to make shoes and hats for her dolls. She completes the dolls with ruffled undergarments and sheer and feminine dresses. The wide-eyed boy is dressed in short pants, covering his striped legs.

The 81-year-old woman has been making her own clothes since she was 12 years old. She learned to sew in the early 1900's by making doll clothes. Mildred says she was ten years old when she learned to crochet.

Known as "grandma," Mildred remembers her very first doll. It was 72 years ago that she received a $3 doll from Germany for Christmas. That doll with the china head and long curls on a kid body is still around today. Mildred trusted it to her oldest daughter.

She never wants to stop her facination for the dolls. "I hope I never get too old to like dolls," jokes Mildred. Even when she was in a car accident years ago and came away with several broken bones she never slowed down.

Mildred enjoys telling the story of one of her "girls" going to college. She has made three different dolls for a girl. While the others had a tough time surviving childhood, the most recent one was wisked off to a college dorm. "I hope she gets a better education than her creator," muses Mildred. She explains she never finished high school.

Mildred Nocks of Tyrone doesn't think you're ever too old to appreciate dolls, and she is her own proof of this belief - the great-great-grandmother celebrates her 82nd birthday next month. And Mildred says, she has made so many dolls through the years, she has lost count.

She may not have a diploma, but she says she feels she has everything of real value in life. The mother of eight has family not only in Pennsylvania, but Arkansas, Virginia, Florida, North Carolina,

These dolls, so very lifelike, are freckle-faced and complete with ears, painted fingernails, and hair. No truer dedication to her task can be found than the fact that she spent 12 hours securing her hair.

This great-great-grandmother says "I hope I never get too old to like dolls." Perhaps the two characters above are a couple reasons why. They are cute, playful and huggable and will be scooped up very fast by one of Mildred's 44 great grandchildren.

Ladies Have You Heard?

Children Manage Money Too

Do you ever wonder where your children learn to manage money? Well, not surprisingly, it's from you. Parents are a child's main source of knowledge and understanding about money.

Children develop money management skills over a period of years; these skills aren't just built in. Children learn by watching how others spend and save. They learn by spending and saving themselves.

Attitudes toward money – what it represents to us and how we value it – are learned too. When children hear their parents quarreling over money problems or think their parents have an easy-come-easy-go attitude toward it, they could develop troubling attitudes toward money – attitudes which may last a life time.

As a parent, you can help your children learn sound money management, making it a natural part of your child rearing and family relations. Talk openly about financial matters with your spouse and other family members – don't let money become the monster in the closet.

Give your children firsthand experience. Let them be part of family money managing decisions. As they become old enough to understand explain savings, income, and expenses and emphasize the role of long-term financial planning.

Money is an everyday part of your children's lives. From an early age they too, have things to buy and reasons to save. An allowance can help your child learn the fundamentals of managing money.

Sit down and discuss money needs and wants with your children. Let them know that their allowance is part of the entire family's financial picture. Agree on a set amount and give it to your child on a regular basis. If circumstances change, allowances should be reviewed and changed if necessary.

Allowances vary. A young child may receive a small amount to spend on little things while a teenager may receive a large amount of money to manage. Some families encourage their teenagers to assume responsibility for clothing, car insurance, and school supplies as well as the more common personal costs. They budget allowances to meet those costs.

As your children develop their abilities to manage their own money, they can begin to learn banking skills as well. If your children want an expensive item, it may be the time to establish realistic savings habits. Banking a certain amount each month for that item will help them learn the value of money.

But remember, an allowance is only one of many ways your children learn about money. Attitudes toward money and abilities to manage it are developed over a long, long period. Your example is the basis for their future financial decisions.

Too old for dolls?

Connecticut, Texas and California as well. She is extremely proud of her family and enjoys talking about them.

Mildred is blessed with talent that never stops. She has oil paintings decorating her walls. Another project is engraving pictures on aluminum trays as wedding gifts. Her next project is a Raggedy Ann doll. Mildred admits that it has been a while since she made one, but the demand is there and she aims to please.

If she's made every doll, what's next? Mildred suggests an apple-head doll. According to the designer it's simple. The first step is to peel an apple. Follow with a dip in lemon juice and canning salt to preserve the apple.

She works hard at creating the facial features on the apple. Mildred carves them until the face is satisfactory. She places a stick into the apple-head and fastens the home-made cloth body onto the stick. She even goes as far as putting hair and wire glasses on the doll.

Mildred has many satisfied customers. She can easily keep count by the cards and letters over the years. "Grandma" and her dolls are known far and wide. It's not only because of her talent and beautiful dolls, but her philosophy on life. Mildred feels that God has given her a life to live and live is what she does. "Life is too short. I must take advantage of it. I don't see or know strangers. They're all friends."

Delegates to chart 4-H's future

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Some 300 youngsters and adults will come to Washington March 27-April 2 to exchange views and help chart directions the nation's 4-H clubs will take in the years ahead.

Delegates will speak for about 5 million boys and girls at the 52nd National 4-H Conference in the National 4-H Center, 7100 Connecticut Ave., N.W.

"Before making their recommendations on the programs 4-H will emphasize in the future, the delegates will meet in groups to discuss a broad range of topics," said Eugene Williams, deputy administrator for 4-H youth programs in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Extension Service.

Williams said the agenda centers around this year's national theme—"4-H Pathways to the Future."

Sue Block, wife of Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block, will make the keynote address at the opening session March 27, and the Secretary plans to attend one or more of the meetings. Both are former 4-H'ers.

Extension Services, headquartered at the country's land-grant universities and colleges in the states, and USDA's Extension Service cooperate with local governments in administering 4-H work throughout the nation and its territories.

The delegates will include teenage youths, adult volunteer leaders who work for 4-H without monetary pay, and Extension staff members from 46 states, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the District of Columbia.

Besides the millions of young people, delegates will represent nearly 600,000 adult 4-H volunteer leaders. Canada also will send delegates as part of 4-H's international exchange efforts.

Williams said the delegates will divide into teams to analyze different 4-H endeavors. One group will look for ways to strengthen 4-H contributions to agricultural production and marketing. Another will talk about how to develop a computer project for 4-H boys and girls and other uses of computers in 4-H.

Teams also will explore new leadership styles and skills for adult voluteers.

Highlights of the week include a meeting of the delegates at the USDA to discuss today's agricultural issues and to view a 4-H photo exhibit sponsored by Eastman Kodak Company. The exhibit will be open to the public that week in the patio area on the first floor of USDA's Administration Building facing the Mall at 14th Street and Independence Avenue.

April 1 will be "4-H Day on Capitol Hill," when delegates will meet with members of Congress and watch the lawmakers in action.

Cultural events for the week include theater and dance performances and a "night view" bus tour of Washington.

"After the conference ends," Williams said, "the 4-H members and leaders will return to their communities and tell the people back home about the work they did at the meeting in Washington and what it all can mean to local groups."

Eggs-a large part of American agriculture

Hearts and eggs - you may think it quite a strange combination due to the high cholesterol content in eggs, but these two have been pitted together this week in celebration of Agriculture Day - It's your heartbeat America. Eggs are a very large segment of America's agriculture and a very basic ingredient in most American's diets.

Eggs are a valuable food source in any society, so it seems appropriate to honor them this week in our Agriculture Day celebration. Eggs fare very well when compared to other foods, and therefore, we can safely say they are at least partially responsible for this year's theme — Agriculture, It's Your Heartbeat America.

Eggs have a high content of protein and lower levels of calories than many of the foods we commonly eat in their place.

Versatility is another big plus for eggs. They usually can be cooked very quickly, saving time and energy. Fried, scrambled, boiled or poached, eggs can be prepared rapidly, particularly for breakfast, provide essential nutrients at a time when the body most needs them.

Try them on Ag Day.

EGGS-IN-A-NEST

Put 1 T. butter into a small hot frying pan. Spread the butter over the bottom of the pan. In this lay a piece of bread. Cut square blocks out of the middle. Break an egg in the square hold. Sprinkle with salt, when bread is toasted turn and fry other side.

Set aside one egg yolk; chop remaining eggs. Add to sauce and heat mixture to serving temperature. Do not boil. Serve over rice and chow mein noodles. Sieve remaining egg yolk for garnish.

Furadan protects your no-till corn against a whole rogue's gallery of pests. Without harming your seedlings.

You grow no-till corn to save both time and energy.

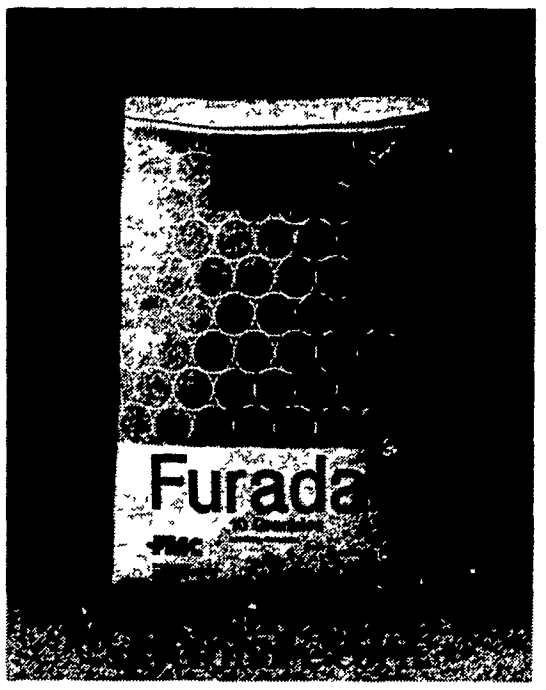
But with any of these eight yield-robbing corn pests lurking in your fields, you need something to save your corn.

That's where Furadan® insecticide-nematicide comes in.

No other insecticide can give you the broad-spectrum protection of Furadan against all those unwanted pests. And no other insecticide is easier on your seed or seedlings. In fact, you can put Furadan right in the furrow at planting because it won't injure corn seedlings, won't affect germination.

Furadan stops both above and below ground pests because it works two ways. In the soil, Furadan works on contact to control corn rootworms, wireworms and microscopic nematodes.

Then Furadan moves into the cornstalk and leaves to get armyworms (4-6 weeks), European corn borers (first generation), common stalk borers (suppression), Southwestern corn borers (second and third generations, flea beetles, Southern corn billbugs and leafhoppers (aids in control).



There's no question that no-till farming puts a lot of extra stress on your corn. Because weeds and mulch from a cover crop are a perfect breeding ground for destructive corn insects and nematodes.

All the more reason for the broad-spectrum protection of Furadan. From FMC Corporation, Agricultural Chemical Group, 2000 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA 19103.

Round steak — a thrifty cut of meat

EBENSBURG — One way to get the most for your meat money is to know individual meat cuts. Round steak, for example, has very little waste, plenty of lean meat and can be prepared in a variety of ways.

In fact, round steak has the lowest percentages of fat of all beef steaks.

Round steak is sold either as a full round steak or cut into its different parts. There are three distinct parts to every round steak-top round, bottom round and eye-of-the-round. These parts differ in tenderness because they contain different muscles, and they are priced accordingly if sold separately.

The most tender section is the top round, easily identified because it is the largest section of the full round steak. If the top round steak is a USDA choice grade, it can be broiled or pan broiled. If it is a lower grade, it should be braised. For greatest tenderness, broil only to the medium rare or medium stage.

"The bottom round is the least tender section and must be cooked with moist heart." The bottom round is the second-largest section. It's also often sold with the eye-of-the-round atached.

Bottom round can be used for Swiss steak or can be cut into cubes or slices for stews extended with vegetables. If very thinly sliced, it can be successfully used for quick cook, stir-fry dishes.

The eye-of-the-round is the smallest section of the round steak and is circular in shape. Though it's not quite as tender as the top round, it can also be broiled or pan fried if it is USDA choice grade. When sold separately, the eye-of-the-round is usually the most expensive of the round steak sections.

To save money on round steak, consider full round steak, the least expensive cut of round steak. If you can't use that much steak for a meal for your family, buy it anyway and cut it into three different sections for three different meals. A two-pound round steak provides ample meat for two people for three separate meals.

If you extend the meat with other foods that are lower in cost, such as vegetables or noodles, it will make four meals.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

"What is so rare as a day in June?" — or something to that effect — once penned a poet.

I'll tell you what: a gorgeous, mild, breezy, reasonably Spring-like day in March. That's what.

A day like that oughta' be spontaneously declared a national holiday, especially after the past two months of Arctic invasion.

Since it isn't, I do the next best thing I can think of as a good excuse to be outside enjoying the sunshine, without working too hard, but still looking busy at the same time. I hang out laundry.

With the wind at your face, and the sun warm on your back, it's easy to imagine that even the clothes are celebrating the change to fresh air after month of dizzy tumbling in a suffocating dryer.

Pajama legs and shirt sleeves cavort and wave at the row of dancing blue jeans, looking for all the world like a high-kicking chorus line of rural Rockettes.

The sparrows gather on the porch roof, gossiping loudly and complaining because I haven't spread a fresh layer of crumbs on the bird feeder.

Fluffy white clouds chase across a deep blue sky, tossing shadows over the contoured fields turning pale golden with barley sprouts and the greening rows of wheat-to-be.

Perhaps the almost breathless enjoyment of such a day lies in the delicious feeling that you're "putting one over" on winter.

For undoubtedly, before many more days pass, the teasing touch of Spring will vanish beneath another blanket of white and ice will again burden branches and power lines.

But not for long, thank goodness. Begone Winter! Out with you!

85 Day Study Results—

BAYMIX TREATED COWS OUTPRODUCE CONTROL GROUP BY 145.9 LBS. PER COW

The study was conducted by Cutter Laboratories at Allenwaite Farms, Schaghticoke, NY. Fifty-three lactating cows were fed Agway Baymix Crumbles according to directions. Forty-nine cows were not.

During the 85 days following treatment, the Baymix cows outproduced the untreated cows by 145.9 lbs per cow. At $13 CWT, that amounts to a net gain of $15.97 per cow after deducting the cost of treatment. All in only 85 days.

Unlike wormers used only at freshening, Baymix can be used on dry cows, lactating cows, replacements—even calves over three months. It's easy and convenient to use.

Just topdress on feed for six consecutive days, once in the spring and again in the fall. There's no restraint or handling that could stress your animals. And best of all—Baymix requires no milk withholding.

For more information on Baymix Crumbles, contact your local Agway store. Get the control and results you need to break the worm cycle in your entire herd.

Food & Fun

Thursday is Agriculture Day, a day set aside to honor the American farmer for his achievements in the world of farming, conservation, and horticulture. You can take part in this day by informing your school teacher of this annual event. Perhaps you could volunteer to explain to your class some of the work you do on your farm.

The theme of this year's Agriculture Day is "Agriculture, it's your heartbeat America." So within this heart you will find lots of crops from which the American farmer makes his living - and lots of food that your school friends find on their table every day.

Unscramble the following words and discover some of these crops:

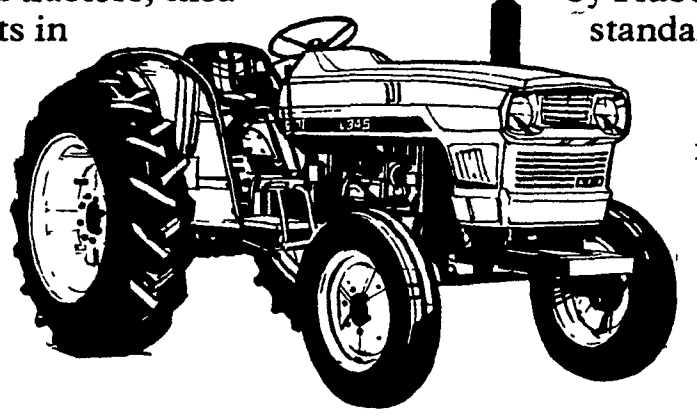
WE'VE BEEN ON THE JOB FOR NEARLY A CENTURY.

Today, lots of people know about Kubota mid-size tractors. But few are aware that Kubota's roots date back to 1890.

Since then, Kubota has grown to be one of the largest manufacturers of agricultural equipment in the world.

Kubota is now in its second decade selling diesel-powered tractors, excavators, and implements in America. With nearly a thousand dealers coast-to-coast, Kubota has become a well-established name, synonymous with economy, dependability, and durability.

Some other manufacturers have only recently entered the mid-size market, and they have done so by putting their names on tractors and excavators built by other companies. You can rest assured, however, that all Kubota products are designed and built by Kubota to its own exacting standards of quality.



Kubota offers the most complete line of mid-size tractors in the world. Nearly a century of expertise stands behind them. Come see our tractors and find out what that kind of experience means.

Now that you've decided what to plant in your garden, and have shuffled through many colorful seed catalogs — all encouraging you to spend your dollars on their products — it's time to take stock of what you actually need.

Before you rush out to buy this year's supply of flower and vegetable seeds, go find last year's leftovers. Many gardeners question whether last year's seeds are worth planting — some are, some aren't.

Because the cost of seed is usually small when compared to the loss or delay in starting if the seed does not germinate well, most gardeners are inclined to discard and replace. Yet if the seed is still viable, throwing away good seed is wasteful and even expensive.

Dennis Wolnich, an Extension horticulture specialist from Penn State, says two things influence the ability of old seeds to germinate: "the variety, or the kind of plant they come from and the way in which the seed has been stored."

The life of most common flower and vegetable seeds can be greatly prolonged by storage in dry, cold atmosphere, and kept in a closed container. But most gardeners forget. They leave seeds as last used — in open packets exposed to fluctuating temperatures.

Some varieties of seeds will tolerate this haphazard storage much better than others. Cucumber, endive, melons, squash, pumpkin, cabbage, cauliflower, eggplant, and radish are usually perfectly good the next year.

However, corn, onion, parsley, and parsnip seed should not be used the second year. Start with fresh ones.

Most, not all — but most flower seeds will germinate well the second year.

If you are unsure about the viability of your seed, run a germination test. Here's how to do it:

—Moisten a large paper towel and space the seeds along one side so they will be covered as the towel is rolled up. Space more rows of seeds along the towel as it is rolled. Make a note of how many seeds you've planted.

—Roll the towel loosely to make about five layers. Fold it in half and place it in a quart jar. Add about one-eighth inch of water to the bottom of the jar to keep the towel moist.

—Cover the jar and place it in a warm location — 70 to 80 degrees. Be sure to check it every few days and keep the paper moist, but not wet.

When the germination period is over, count the number of seeds that sprouted. You can then figure the percentage of germinating seeds and assume that the rest of the seeds in the packet will germinate in about the same percentage. If the results of your test go well, you can save yourself the time and expense of buying replacements. Just plant, tend, and harvest — they'll be almost cost-free.

Outstanding Young Farmer

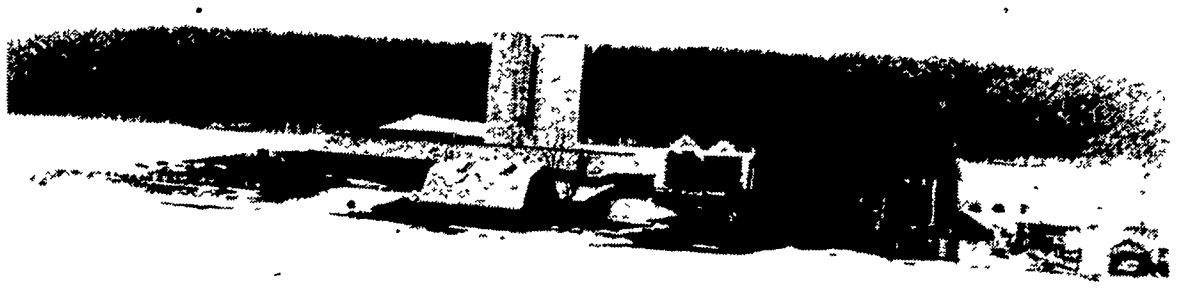
PA Jaycees honor Blair Co. farmer

BY PATTY GROSS
Staff Correspondent

MARTINSBURG — Once again a Blair County farmer has been honored as exceptional in his work.

When you meet R. Alan Gearhart its obvious why the Pennsylvania Jaycees selected him as Pennsylvania's Outstanding Young Farmer for 1982.

It isn't the first award for Alan. The 1969 Central High School graduate received his Keystone Farmer Degree in 1968, while a member of FFA. Alan showed horses for a great many years. His parents display the wall of trophies in their home.



The 200-acre Gearhart farm, known as Aldon Acres, is nestled between the rolling hills of the well-known area called "Morrison's Cove." Alan and his father, Donald, jointly own and run the farm.

A lot of work and education has been shouldered by the 30 year old R2 Martinsburg man. While earning a B.S. in agricultural education at Penn State, he worked for his father at "Aldon Acres."

Alan and his wife, Lisa, are partners with his parents, Donald and Donna Gearhart. The family bought the Clover Creek-area farm in 1964. They have been remodeling ever since.

"There is a lot more to do," adds Alan. Most of the building the dairymen have done themselves.

The do-it yourself survival method is also evident in the fact that they grow everything they need, except for buying the protein and minerals.

"I don't see how a younger person can get a farm, unless it's family or a farmer takes him in," reasons Alan.

"Don't spend too much," he advises. "That's how the father and son partners operate." Alan and his dad explain that they are definitely keeping the operation the same size. "We are concentrating on getting better not bigger," comments Alan.

He plants the 120 acres they own and the 60 acres they rent in corn and alfalfa.

The 60 registered Holsteins average nearly 16,000 pounds of milk and 615 pounds of butterfat. The Gearharts expect results just as good someday, from their 60 heifers.

Alan is very proud of what he and his father have accomplished. The Altoona Jaycees, who sponsored him, feel the same way.

"I was very surprised when I was picked," smiles Alan. After receiving the state award February 6 at a special diner in Harrisburg, Alan and his wife Lisa made preparations for the trip to Owensboro, Kentucky to represent the state in the national competition.

Four winners were selected on the national level, who represented the states of California, Illinois, Indiana and Minnesota. Alan was not chosen, but to hear him tell it, he came away with much more. "The best part was meeting people from all over," notes Alan.

The farmers were judged on a four page questionaire and a confidential financial statement. Alan says that was all... no more, no less.

"Most of the operations in the 45 competing states were a lot larger," Alan states. The Pennsylvania contestant figures the average farm was 1,100 acres. Competition wasn't limited to dairy farmers either. There were maybe 11 dairy entries and just as many hog farmers. Beef farmers were represented too.

(Turn to Page B14)

Alan and Lisa have taken their 14-month-old daughter to the barn since she was born. As with all youngsters, the fascination here is the calves.

Jaycees pick Blair farmer

"Many were grain farmers," according to Alan. Some of those in the competition grew rice, cotton and potatoes.

The weekend was mainly educational, learning about the other farms. There were also sessions on grain and farm equipment. A new experience for Alan and his wife were the tours of a brewery and tobacco plant.

"There was a small slide presentation on each of us." Alan explains. They found out about "Aldon Acres", while Alan got to know the otner farmers. That's where he could see the differences in the contestant's farms.

They also have quite a lot in common. "Involvement in community service meant alot in the competition," says the young farmer.

As a director of the Blair County Holstein Club, Alan is a member of the Pennsylvania National Holstein Association. He is involved in the Red and White Dairy Cattle Association, also.

The outstanding dairyman is also a member of the Morrison Cove Young Farmers organization and serves on the advisory board of the Central Cove FFA Chapter. He is recognized for his participation in the community and his church, where he serves as a sunday school teacher.

Alan and his family have an excellent working relationship. "For now, everything is split fifty-fifty, " he explains. He plans to be in partnership with his father for a long time. However when Mr. Gearhart is ready to sell, Alan is prepared to be the buyer.

Pennsylvania's Outstanding Young Farmer had put a lot of work into this family farm, and is dedicated to many more years of hard work for the farm and family that he loves.

R. Alan Gearhart of Martinsburg was chosen by the Pennsylvania Jaycees to receive the coveted Outstanding Young Farmer award. This Blair County farmer takes time out from his busy schedule to pose with wife, Lisa, and daughter Melissa.

Dairy farmers save consumers food dollars

LANCASTER — According to a UDIA newsletter, 'From this Corner', American consumers pay less for dairy foods because of the efficiency of U.S. dairy farmers. That's right Not only do some 300,000 dairy farmers work hard to supply Americans with an adequate supply of wholesome U.S produced milk, but they save consumers money by doing so.

'From This Corner' admits that food prices have soared. But when you examine data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, you find that dairy prices have saved dollars for American consumers. By December 1981, dairy prices were 6% less than meat, 12% less than cereal and 14% less than fruits. In fact, dairy products increased 11% less than the average price for all foods.

BLS sets 1967 prices at 100%. Using that as an index, it means dairy products that cost $1 in 1967 now cost $2.45. But meat costs have gone from $1 to $2.61, cereal costs to $2.78 and fruits to $2.84. To keep it in perspective, the average of all foods that cost $1 in 1967, cost $2.76 in 1981.

During the milk shortages in 1973-74, limited supplies of milk kept prices relatively high. Today, milk and dairy products are available in abundance. Today, consumers can buy dairy products for less money because efficient dairy farmers have kept prices down for these valuable foods.

Love Canal leader to address Red Rose Alliance

NEW HOLLAND — Lois Gibbs, former resident of Love Canal and founder of the Citizen's Clearinghouse for Hazardous Wastes, will address the Red Rose Alliance at a public meeting planned on Tuesday, March 23.

Ms. Gibbs, who organized the Love Canal Homeowners Association which was successful in bringing the dangers of hazardous waste disposal in her community near Niagara Falls, N.Y. to national attention, will speak at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 23, in the Trinity Lutheran Church Hall, New Holland.

Through her efforts, the dangers of hazardous wastes were brought to national prominence, resulting in the development and passage of federal legislation.

Her story is that of a concerned citizen and mother who battled governmental redtape and a huge chemical company for three years until the true story of Love Canal was told.

Her children were among the many residents who were made ill by the chemicals that had been dumped for 35 years in the area.

Finally, in late 1980 the last of the residents of Love Canal were evacuated by former President Carter.

Ms. Gibbs, who now lives near Washington, D.C., organized the Citizens's Clearinghouse for Hazardous Wastes. through which she works with groups and communities concerned with hazardous waste disposal sites.

She is the author of an autobiography, "Love Canal: My Story." She was also the subject of a two-hour CBS-TV movie, "Lois Gibbs: The Love Canal."

The Red Rose Alliance meeting is open to the public.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Today I'm in a reminiscing mood as I just found my father's notebook of expenses for 1928. I realize this isn't my grandfather's or great grandfather's records, but I still find them quite interesting So much has changed in the last fifty years.

One page lists "Ben" shoed for $1.25 or "Fred" shoed for $1.50 How well I remember having to lead those two work horses five miles to an old blacksmith shop. I was always afraid they would step on my feet — maybe because one time they did just that. And when it happened, I just stood and screamed instead of backing them off of my foot.

I notice that he paid 15 cents for silver nitrate to treat his tobacco seed and had his tobacco beds steamed for $8.50 which included 17 pans at 50 cents each. Then hauling the baled tobacco to Lancaster in the spring cost him $5.76.

My one sister was born that year and we have a live-in nurse for two weeks at a cost of $44. That is a pittance compared to today's prices for health care. But then shoes only cost $2.25, gasoline for the 1923 Overland was 20 cents per gallon and a driver's license was $1. My father's haircut cost 40 cents each month but the children's were free, as he cut our hair.

I notice that one thing for which he was willing to spend some money was his radio. In one year he spent $30 for heavy duty batteries, tubes and a radio horn My mother always thought it was too expensive an item.

He purchased four kinds of seeds. They were clover seed, cobbler potatoes, buckwheat and timothy seed. And when he had laborers for threshing or silo filling they were paid $2 per day.

There is one entry that surprised me and that was 35 cents for the movies. Another was a December 21 entry that listed "Toys 65 cents and at that time my parents had four little girls; although, a big turkey was purchased for $6. Some of the things listed would probably no longer be in our present day record books; such as lantern fixed, coal oil, hitching rein and bit and Baer's almanac. At that time the daily morning newspaper was only $6 per year. How times have changed.

Maybe it's time you switched fertilizer tanks

Switch to a Calumet Liquid Manure Spreader

Compared to today's — and tomorrow's — sky-high fertilizer prices, manure is just too valuable to waste. A hundred cow dairy herd, for example, can save thousands of dollars every year in fertilizer costs

Take full advantage of this liquid gold with a Calumet liquid manure spreader teamed with a 4-shank soil injector Injecting can help retain four times the nitrogen that's usually lost with surface spreading — in addition to reducing odor and run-off problems

Calumet spreaders, in capacities from 1625 to 4500 gallons, are engineered for efficiency and longevity Heavy duty steel alloy tanks are coated with epoxy to resist corrosion Double reinforced A-frames and support skids add strength for heavy loads All Calumet liquid spreaders are backed by a 12-month warranty

Make the best use of the fertilizer produced on your farm with a Calumet liquid spreader and soil injector.

Call for information on the value of manure— and some good reasons why you should switch fertilizer tanks.

Block announces dairy symposium

SEATTLE, Wash., — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block recently announced a puble dairy symposium March 22-23 at the Marriott Hotel in Kansas City, Mo., to gather input for drafting recommendations to Congress about changes in the dairy price support program.

Block's announcement came during his address to the Western States Dairy Conference here.

"No final decisions will be made during the symposium, "Block said. "Our goal is to gather input from a wide range of knowledgeable people are about how we can tackle the severe problem of dairy surplus and the increasing costs of government support payments."

Under the current program, USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation purchases surplus dairy products to maintain a price level established by Congress. The intent of the program is to guarantee consumers an adequate supply at reasonable prices, while providing producers a fair return.

But Block said the current uncommitted CCC inventory contains 290 million pounds of butter, 581 million pounds of cheese and 920 million pounds of non-fat dry milk. This surplus inventory is still growing," he said.

"Even with the program revisions made within the past year — production is up, demand is flat and the taxpayer is forced to buy the difference, " Block said. "This is embarrassing, unacceptable and intolerable. It cannot continue."

Assistant Secretary William G. Lesher is organizing the symposium under Block's direction. He said Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng will kick off the first session, which will focus on the supply and demand situation facing the industry over the next two years. The second day will be devoted to exploring options on how the current dairy situation can be improved, Lesher said.

Persons interested in addressing the symposium should contact Alden Manchester of USDA's Economic Research Service at (202) 447-8833. Reservations should be made directly with the hotel by calling (816) 464-2200 and indicating attendance at the symposium.

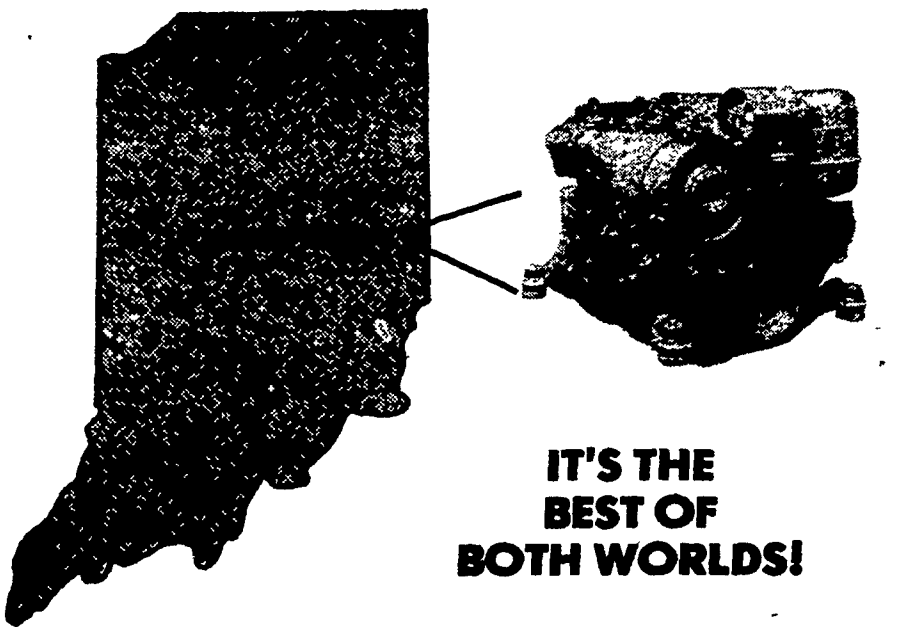
DEUTZ DIESELS FROM INDIANA?



IT'S THE BEST OF BOTH WORLDS!

Deutz customers know from experience that Deutz diesels are a creation of German engineering and production craftsmanship. All those happy Deutz users will be even happier to learn that — NOW DEUTZ DIESELS ARE MADE IN USA - at an engine plant Deutz purchased in Richmond, Indiana.

Domestic production in the 20-160 hp range gives us and our Deutz customers a tremendous advantage over all other air-cooled diesels.

Invest in a sure thing - Deutz diesels have been famous for fuel economy and reliability since Amos Stauffer first sold Deutz diesels in this area - 25 years ago. We are equally famous for superb Deutz service.

Don't just buy a "bargain" diesel which is supposed to be "built like a Deutz". BUY A DEUTZ AND BE SURE YOU HAVE MADE A GOOD INVESTMENT. A Deutz diesel will usually recover the difference in price thru fuel savings alone within one year.

FFA protests farm sale for industrial use

LAMPETER — Members of the Garden Spot FFA Chapter at Lampeter-Strasburg High School, who have been studying the preservation of farmland in their vo-ag classes, are protesting the sale of a Lancaster County farm by Sperry New Holland for industrial development.

The Garden Spot FFA'ers and their advisor, Dick Yencer, explain that they see something of a paradox in the sale of the 95-acre farm for non-agricultural purposes by a company that manufactures farm equipment.

"In our classes we're trying to raise the awareness of students to be concerned with soil stewardship and the preservation of farmland and then along comes a company that deals with farmers and wants to sell good land for an industrial park, Yencer explained."

Yencer said that a number of telephone calls had been made to Sperry New Holland offices and a letter had been written to Larry Huslin, who is in charge of real estate, following announcement that the farm was to be sold for proposed industrial purposes to Wickersham, Inc.

(Turn to Page B23)

This is the farm along Rt. 501 across from the Lancaster Airport, which is proposed for industrial development.

N.E. Fruit growers meeting March 16

CLARKS SUMMIT — Marshall Ritter, Penn State Extension pomologist, will be one of the speakers on the program at the Northeast Regional Fruit Growers meeting to be held Tuesday, March 16 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. here at the Ramada Inn on Routes 6 and 11.

The all day meeting, sponsored by the Lackawanna County Horticultural Association, is open to all fruit growers both commercial and home garden who wish to attend.

Topics to be covered on the program include insect and disease control; deer fences for fruit planting protection; using soil and leaf analysis; and new methods for weed and mouse control.

Other speakers are Robert Tetrault, Extension entomologist; James Travis, Extension plant pathologist; and Murray Fisk, Wyoming County Extension agent.

The meeting will serve as a training session for private applicators of restricted use pesticides whose certification expired in 1981 or will expire in 1982. No advance reservations are required to attend the meeting.

FFA

In the letter, the FFA chapter proposed that an alternative to the sale for industrial purposes would be selling the land to a young farmer with the company providing financial aid to get started.

The matter was also brought before the Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board, which resulted in the sending of a letter by County Commissioner James Huber to George C. Delp, one of the founders of the farm machinery company.

Commissioner Huber said in the letter:

"Instead of selling this prime farmland for industrial use, allow a young farmer to purchase this for agricultural use.

"Some of the options are:

"1. request Manheim Township to rezone this to agriculture; and

"2. consider putting a voluntary deed restriction on the property, limiting the use to farming, to show support of Lancaster County's Agricultural Preserve Board."

Ben Bowman, vice president and treasurer of Wickersham, Inc., which has taken an option on the farm, said that Manheim Township has been approached concerning extending sewer and water facilities to the farm. Other property owners in the area have also expressed an interest in the services, he said.

The farm is located along Rt. 501 north of Neffsville, opposite the Lancaster Airport. It is zonded industrial.

Don Collins, of the Sperry New Holland Community Relations Department, said that letters concerning the farm had been received from the Lampeter-Strasburg and Warwick FFA chapters.

He explained that the farm had been offered for sale for a year and a half and the only offer had come from Wickersham for industrial development. He said the 95-acre property had been appraised at more than a million dollars.—DA

Cattlemen crown new queen

By Laurie Dobrosky

STATE COLLEGE — Brenda Walter, Airville, was named the 1982 Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Queen during the recent meeting of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's association held in conjunction with the Penn State Beef Cattle Conference, here March 5-6.

Brenda, the 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Walter, was one of five candidates for the crown. Brenda resides on her parents commercial cattle farm, and also owns registered Angus and Simmental cattle.

Brenda is presently serving as the 1982 Pennsylvania FFA princess. She is a member of the Red Lion FFA and is a leader of the York County 4-H Beef Club. Brenda hopes to work with purebred cattle either as a herdsperson or show manager to further her interest with beef cattle.

The Cattlemen's queen's duties include the promotion of beef in various shopping malls, county fairs, and is actively involved in the opening ceremonies of the Pennsylvania Farm Show, according to last year's queen Molly Johnson, Nottingham.

Other candidates for the title included: Carolyn Zyzo, State College: Diane Keane, Palmyra: Joan Peoples, New Willmington: and Jeanne Peoples, New Willmington.

Carolyn Zyzo, who originally hails from Wellingford, Connecticut is an animal production major at Penn State. She is the daughter of Frank and Dorothy Zyzo.

Diane Keane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keane, is the former Pennsylvania Angus Queen, who owns about 20 head of Angus Cattle. She is an animal production major at Penn State.

Joan and Jeanne Peoples, are the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peoples. They both raise Shorthorn Cattle and are actively involved in 4-H and the Shorthorn Association. Both girls attend Penn State. Jean is a computer science major and Joan is an architecture major.

Brenda Walter, Airville, second from right was named the 1982 Pennsylvania Cattlemen's queen at their recent banquet. Pictured with Brenda are her assistants from left: Joan Peoples, New Wilmington, Carolyn Zyzo, State College; Dianne Keane, Palmyra; Brenda and Jean Peoples, New Wilmington.

Rose Schneider is Pa.'s Cattle"person" of Year

STATE COLLEGE — Rose Schneider, was named the 1982 "Cattleperson" of the Year during the recent Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association meeting held in conjunction with the Beef Cattle Conference here last Friday and Saturday.

Mrs Schneider, a Butler County native, has been actively involved in Pennsylvania's Beef Cattle industry. She and her husband Hal, raise performance tested Simmental Cattle on their 700-acre farm.

Mrs. Schneider has been involved in the analysis and selection of the farm's Simmental cattle and has served as secretary of the Pennsylvania Simmental Association where she was involved in a number of youth activities.

"This is really an honor," said Mrs. Schneider. She is the first woman to receive the Cattleman of the Year award.

In addition to the selection of the Cattleman of the Year, the Cattlemen also awarded Robert R. Coleman, past president of the group a gavel for his services during the year. As president, he oversaw such activities as the Cattlemen's queen, Beef-Cook Off, and the Ag Arena Sale campaign.

Coleman also was presented with a statue of the Nittany Lion(the mascot of Penn State) from the Dean of Penn State's College of Agriculture, Sammuel Smith. He was honored for the time and effort spent in the coordination of the beef cattle consignments for the Ag Arena Sale, which helped to raise $30,000 for the Arena.

Featured speaker for the banquet was Micheal O'Field, vice president of supervision for Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, the title of his speech was, Agriculture Financing for Tomorrow: Optimism not Pessimism.

Stressing that Agriculture is the nations most productive industry, O'Field stated the "country turns on Agriculture." Quoting 1979 figures he stated that 2.3 percent of the United States population is actively involved in Agriculture. Only 14 percent of the average income is spent on food compared to such countries as: Japan's-23

Pamona Grange sponsors legislative dinner

BY SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Correspondent

NOTTINGHAM — Lancaster County Pomona Grange 71 started out the schedule of some 23 statewide Grange sponsored legislative dinners this year.

State Master Charles Wismer was on hand last Friday evening at the Fulton Grange Hall to commend the local Pomona Grange for its planning the meeting between Grangers, guests, and area legislators.

Included in the program were past master of the state's Grange, J. Collins McSparran, acting as toastmaster. In turn, he introduced a number of elected officials to address the two hundred in attendance. Noah Wenger, representative for the 99th legislative district and Gibson Armstrong, representative for the 100th legislative district preceded Robert S. Walker, U.S. representative from the 16th congressional district.

Although this was the first public gathering since county commissioner, Mrs. Jean Mowery announced her running for Congress against Walker, at which she and Walker both attended, neither mentioned subjects of strong debating material. In fact, at one point during her brief comments, she said, "In the election, Mr. Walker and I will be debating...and we may agree on more than we disagree." She went on to add that debating the disagreements points to a basic strength of our country that we allow discussions and debates.

Although there are many issues debatable in a collection of five elected state and national officials and Grange policies as well as the local farm economy, the meeting was terminated by McSparran after an hour and a half of prepared comments by the speakers. Although a number of those in attendance spoke individually to the legislators after dismissal, there was no public question and answer session.

The tone of all of the speeches pointed to working toward a better solution to farming economics, everyone's getting his fair shake and strengthening the national economy.

Noah Wenger, representative to the state legislature, said he has seen a number of changes in the past five years since taking office at Harrisburg, which are positive. "We have always had a strong work ethic here in Lancaster County and that sort of philosophy is coming in vogue among many more people now," he explained. "Rural people and rural Pennsylvania are important to our security and our economy and the Grange is in the mainstream," he added.

Wenger also stated that the new reapportionment is a positive step for Lancaster County because it will give the area a stronger voice. He said, "After the initial pain of the changes in the surrounding counties and Lancaster are over, we will have a stronger voice."

Representative Armstrong briefly reiterated the reapportionment proposals. He touched on a few items of legislative business including attempts to raise the drinking age to twenty-one, following Maryland's example, batting problems with prevailing wage laws, and employment red tape.

Congressman Walker began his remarks in answer to a comment made earlier by Wismer about the agriculture bill which Walker voted against. He said he saw some unfair aspects of the bill and thus could not vote for it as it was stated. He also said he disagrees with the National Grange's support for the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Making the strongest statement of the relatively very calm and quiet presentations, Walker said he felt it was time the government declared Poland in default of its debts. "If we are really going to come down on that military governemnt and we are really going to stand up for the things we believe, I think it's high time that we declared them in default," he said.

Walker went on to say that the 1981 tax bill was a positive step for farm preservation in its inheritance tax provisions and accelerated appreciation provisos. In the area of national economic recovery, Walker said growth would cut unemployment, which in turn would cut the deficit. High interest rates directly affect unemployment and the budget deficits, he concluded. He predicted "a remarkable turn around about mid-year."

County Commissioner Jean Mowery expressed her pride in being a Lancaster Countain. She said, "We are a very rich nation and our country is very rich. We have been provided with so many good things. We have a few

WE BUILD FOR THE DAIRY INDUSTRY

Farming's Futures

By David K. Sauder
Commodity Advisor
Trade Tech, Lancaster

Last week we started to discuss the clearing transactions in the commodities market and how this unique function of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange protects the customer.

The next step in the clearing process, unknown in other, more familiar, areas of finance, further protects the customer. By this step, the Clearing House becomes the opposite party on every transaction. It becomes the seller for every buyer, and the buyer for every seller.

This is significant, since it means the customer need not be concerned about who took the opposite side of his trade. Initially, when the trade was executed, the opposite side was another clearing member (regardless of who was the actual customer who placed the opposite order).

Later, after the daily "clearing" process has been completed, the opposite clearing member is replaced by the Exchange Clearing House, which then becomes responsible for performance.

Since the original parties to a trade no longer have any obligation to each other, each party may liquidate (sell a contract previously bought or buy back a contract previously sold) his contract (s) without any contact with the individual with whom he originally traded.

The No-Debt System

Most significantly, the substitution process establishes the Clearing House as the pay-and-collect agency for and from its clearing members. The Clearing House acts to eliminate all outstanding debts prior to the opening of the next day's market.

Each clearing firm must pay to the Clearing House its previous day's debt, based on the settling price — or it may collect its previous day's gain. All such debts or gains are paid in cash by wire transfer. No clearing member is allowed any credit nor is it allowed to continue in operation unless it has paid any debt resulting from the previous day's trading together with any debt owed for maintenance margin on previously established open positions.

A clearing member begins each new day without debt to the Clearing House. The "no-debt" system is the principal reason for the Exchange's impeccable record of fiscal integrity, since debt exposure is limited to one day's market fluctuations.

Unique Financial System

The Clearing-House system, with its built-in "no-debt" feature, differs dramatically from most other financial markets. In most other systems, a forward transaction is not settled until maturity, when market losses are paid and profits are received. And the transaction is made between indvidual persons or firms.

In such systems, it is essential to know the financial integrity of the opposite party, whether a bank, a corporation, or a person.

On a futures exchange, the opposite party is always the Clearing House, which guarantees the transaction. All clearing members must pay any market losses of customers on a daily basis; and the customer's account is adjusted daily, in cash, to reflect his profits and losses, again limiting risk to a single day's market fluctuation.

Furthermore, the futures trader has the ability to offset his market position at any time during the life of the contract and simultaneously withdraw his equity (funds). The funds in the trader's account reflect the exact market value of his position at the end of each trading day.

problems, but we are in one family."

County Commissioner James Huber, a member of Fulton Grange, pin-pointed emergency facilities and operations in the county as some of the primary issues in his office. Police, fire and ambulance services as well as nuclear warning and monitoring systems are of present concern. Disposal wastes and conservation of land and water also come under the county commissioner's consideration, he added.

Adams farmers see cloudy marketing picture

BY GINGER SECHRIST MYERS
Staff Correspondent

NEW OXFORD — Local producers saw few economic bright spots while Extension Economist Louis Moore expressed concern but a somewhat brighter picture at a meeting held recently in New Oxford on the outlook for marketing farm commodities.

A panel of local farmers representing different farm commodities gave their predictions.

Speaking for crop production, Ted Rhodes, New Oxford:

"I don't mean to paint a picture of gloom and doom, but all the prices are down...Unless you feed oats yourself or sell them to your neighbors, don't even take your drill out to the field...There is a bright spot in hay prices with a potential for profit in the alfalfa market."

Speaking for fruit production, Stewart Luchabaugh, New Oxford:

"In looking at the fruit picture, there's a lot of if's...One problem is the Washington apple market is coming to the east and capturing the market. They grow a prettier apple, but we can grow one that tastes better."

Speaking for beef producers, Stan Wolfe, Gettysburg:

"We must change the way we grow beef. It costs too much to put red meat on the table...One of our big problems is not getting across to the consumer what a good buy they're getting with foods."

Speaking as a dairyman shipping to an independent processor, Alan Zepp, New Oxford:

"Inflation has kept the profit margin tighter...Hopefully if the referendum passes, it will help but it probably won't help this year...Shipping to an independent saves on hauling and membership dues, but you must keep your place clean or you're laid off."

Speaking for poultry producers, Mark Widerman, New Oxford:

Penn State Extension Economist Lou Moore outlines his market outlook, including better prices for beef and hogs.

Farmings Futures

our articles described how clearing members are protected from each other. It explained why a customer need not be concerned with the financial responsibility of the person on the opposite side of his trade. But what about his own clearing firm?

These objectives are accomplished in a number of ways. Each will be examined separately as we continue this discussion next week.

Members of a farmer panel, who gave their predictions on future farm commodity prices at a recent meeting in New Oxford to discuss the market outlook include, from the left, Larry Yager, area marketing specialist, Ted Rhodes, Stewart Luchabaugh, Stan Wolfe, Alan Zepp, Mark Widerman, John Hess and Clair Herr.

Adams Farmers

"The profit of the poultry business will be strongly affected by the economy...Last year's consumption of eggs was 264 per person and was an all-time low. People bought other sources of protein...All poultry will be helped by a lower supply of other protein sources and lower feed prices in 1982."

Speaking as a dairyman shipping to a large co-op, John Hess, Gettysburg:

"We've lost our edge against inflation with the 75% parity...I hope prices hold steady. Some people are taking as much as a $2.00 drop...There are advantages in shipping to a co-op in that we have a guaranteed market even though we do pay dues...This year we'll have to do a better job of culling and keep only the profitable cows. Also, we'll have to do a better job with credit."

Speaking for pork producers, Clair Herr, New Oxford:

"I hope pork is coming around. Our steady slaughter weights, lower feed costs, and death losses due to cold have all been pluses. On the minus side the economy is sluggish and people just can't afford the prices...We'll probably see more export of pork. Also, more swine will be used for medical uses. The skins are used for burn victims and the heart valves are being used too...In the long run, hog futures look bright."

Following the panel, Extension Economist Moore presented his agriculture forecast for 1982. Moore had a list of concerns, but he jokingly told the group that after several years, inflation was not on his list. Instead, recession headed the list. Moore hopes that the recession will be over by summer, but stated that consumers will have to have more optimism to pull us out. Also, warmer weather and the July 1 tax cut should help stimulate the economy.

Also included on his list of concerns are surpluses and the new Farm Bill. He feels we have more surpluses than expected and farmers don't feel they got a fair shake with the Farm Bill.

Moore is concerned about possible sanctions and embargoes. He points out that from an economic standpoint, embargoes never work. He predicts that we haven't passed the point where we couldn't get another embargo, but if we do; it will be for political reasons and not economic ones. He stated that we also have a problem with extending credit to the East block.

He is hopeful that farmers will participate in the new set-aside programs, but stated that most farmers will analyze their own situations and then try to maximize on their operations by planting all they can. This is aggravated by low income prospects, according to Moore, since a lot of farmers are having cash flow problems and interest rates remain high.

Moore pointed out that the dollar remains strong abroad, but this has an adverse effect on our export markets. Moore stated that we are now in an export competition since in just 10 years the East Europe Community has moved from an importer of food to one of the world's largest exporters. They have responded to the high prices. Moore foresees a collision course since the East Europe Community is considering heavy duties on the $5 billion in imports they take of corn and soybean meal.

A brighter spot on Moore's list is that there is no shortage of ag inputs this year. Today it's a buyer's market and he feels dealers are afraid of being stuck with a large inventory so they are ready to deal.

Other factors involved are the weather, consumer buying power, and the federal budget. While circumstances beyond the farmer's control dictate over the first two, Moore expressed a great York County dairy farmers Rodney and Sara Eisenhart were recently named regional community service winners by the state Young Farmers Association. They're now helping to organize the summer tour of the organization to be hosted by the Dover chapter.

THOMASVILLE — At almost any York County 4-H event, Rodney and Sara Eisenhart can be found somewhere in the background, helping with all the major and minor details that keep any organization running smoothly.

The Eisenharts of R1 Thomasville were recently honored as regional community service award winners during the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Young Farmers.

A member of the Dover Area Young Farmers chapter, Rodney joined the adult education group as an extension of his FFA involvement. He's a 1955 graduate of the Dover Future Farmers and vo-ag program, was chosen the concern about the USDA budget. With the USDA budget down to 23.5 billion dollars from 29.4 billion, Moore feels there will have to be more cuts. Price supports are down from 6.8 billion to 1.8 billion which is less than was paid for milk supports alone last year. Moore pointed out that there is a real conflict between what is projected and what is reality.

In summary, Moore predicted improved prices for beef and hogs and a leveling off of prices for dairy, crops, broilers, and eggs.

county's outstanding FFA member, and earned his Keystone degree.

In searching for worthy recipients of their service award, the Young Farmers organization places heavy emphasis on leadership and participation in a range of farm and community groups, based on the preceding five years.

In addition to their Young Farmer activities, both Sara and Rodney are "into" 4-H leadership.

Sara became a novice cooking club leader over a decade ago, when son Tim first entered the 4-H program with a dairy calf. Both now work closely with their local Thomasville Community club, the dairy club and county council. Sara serves on the county's agricultural etension advisory and 4-H advisory boards.

She's also been instrumental for several years in helping tc organize a group of volunteer 4-H cooks who have raised thousands of dollars toward kitchen equipment at the 4-H center by serving dinners for various organizations.

Both the Eisenhart's are active at their Paradise (Holtzschwaam) United Church of Chirst, and belong to the Abbottstown and Thomasville fire companies.

Their son Tim is an ROTC - ag engineering graduate of Penn State, now studying with the Navy in Rhode Island. Oldest daughter Nancy is a senior at Spring Grove, is an alternate county dairy princess, and will study computer science at Penn State York campus in the fall. Youngest of the family is Susan, in sixth grade at Spring Grove's middle school, and a musically-inclined student who plays the bells. Both girls are active in various aspects of the 4-H program.

Rodney and Sara met while they were both students at Dover High School. His family owned a dairy and crops farm near Weiglestown, while non-farmer Sara's family resided near Strinestown.

For several months after they were married, Rod managed the Graybill's feed mill, near York New Salem. In the spring of 1958, they returned to join the Eisenhart dairy operation, in partnership with Rodney's parents.

Then in 1965, the dairying partnership took on a new look. Rodney's brother Keith, and his wife Eva, replaced the elder Eisenharts in the farm operation. Eisenhart Brothers purchased a 168-acre farm between Thomasville and East Berlin, with Rodney and Sara moving into the farmhouse, and Keith and Eva living just a few minutes off the farm.

That operation has again undergone major change, with an expansion and modernizaton of the dairying facilities. Late in January, the Eisenhart Brothers herd of 72 milkers moved into a new double-four herringbone parlor and free-stall complex.

Strictly a family-oriented operation, Rodney , Sara and their children take turns with Keith in handling the milking chores. Rodney handles the farm bookwork, using an Agway tax records system, kept separately from the personal accounts of both families.

In addition to their own land, Eisenharts rent another 325 acres of corp land, mostly corn and altalfa hay, with small amounts of wheat and barley in rotation. Corn goes into a silage unit, and haylage into sealed storage, for total mixed ration feeding of the dairy herd.

Guild revives old quilting art

BY BETH HUMMINGER
Staff Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG — "There's no American folk art as filled with robust spirit of our forefathers as quilting. The country quilters of the past frugally created masterpieces from just bits of fabric," said Caroline Winslow, quilting expert and teacher at the first meeting of the Chambersburg Quilting Guild.

Guild, a new and innovative organizaton for today's quilters was started by four avid quilters, Ailene Chutter, Marjorie Lehman, Lonnie Breckbill and Virginia Tarner all from the Chambersburg area. The four organizers hoped the quilting guild would bring together new ideas, would be a learning experience for all and a way to share problems with other craftwomen like themselves.

Mrs. Chutter remarked that the first meeting was a success, with over 50 area quilters attending the meeting. She added that all quilters are welcome to become a member of the Guild; you need only have an interest in the art of quilting.

Caroline displays a few samples of her unique collection of quilts. She enjoys quilts that vividly display the craftsmanship of color and design. She said, "I like to see the quilts dance and move like these do."

Guest speaker, Caroline Winslow continued that quilts were women's one means of self-expression in a predominately male world of early pioneer days. She said that this was one way they could create a bright spot in their otherwise someber homes. And Winslow believes that the women are truly artists because they created quilts with a sophisticated eye for color, contrast and construction.

Because of her indepth studies in quiltmaking, Winslow believes that the women of long ago made their quilts through trial and error. She said, "They didn't have kits to follow, only their visual imagination."

Winslow said that this is the third revival for quiltmaking in this country. She stated that the first revival was in the 1860's the second in the 1930's and the third in the 1970's and 80's. She noted that during each revival of the craft, quiltmaking takes on a new appeal for the maker and collector.

The present day revival has brought about a new art appeal in quilts. She said it first started several years ago with an exhibit of quilts in a major New York museum, where the quilts were displayed as pieces of art, not as needlework, or hope chest collections, or for sociallogical purposes as had been done in the past. Also, trend-setting decorating magazines like American Homes printed cover stories with colored layouts of the art that people were seeing in the old American craft of quilting, and the boom was on.

When the present-day revival first began, it was the "art-people" and the antique enthusiasts who snatched up the quilts from auctions and farm sales. At that time she said quilt tops were inexpensive and usually sold with a bundle of scrap fabrics for a dollar or two.

The Winslows, Caroline and Kennelm, use their favorite quilt as a decorative wall hanging because of its unusual pattern and splashes of color. "See how it dances," Caroline said, "it is our bright spot in the kitchen." Here, Kennelm poses with the hanging.

Today, she said, most of the old quilts with crazy designs and unusual fabrics have been bought or sold to collectors, expecially the Amish quilts. And she added that all of these old quilts are being sold today at phenomenal prices.

"Because of the Amish's quilts uniqueness, they can not be found in the marketplace today." Unlike the quilts made of printed calico, Amish quilts were made entirely of solid colored fabrics and usually of a dress-weight wool. Even though the Amish women used solid colors for their quilts, there is definitely nothing plain about what they did with their material.

"Artists, quiltmakers and homemakers see the solid colored Amish quilts as works of art that are rich and subtle with a pure design," Winslow said.

Winslow, a teacher at Shippensburg State College in quilting said that she trys to encourage each student to do what they wa

Small-scale food processing holds promise for family farms

BELTSVILLE, Md. — Do-it-yourself food processing and marketing could eliminate many part-time farmers' needs for off-the-farm jobs, according to U.S.D.A. scientist Donald D. Bills.

"By doing their own processing, many small, family farms could become financially self-sufficient," said Bills, chief of plant science at Philadelphia's Eastern Regional Research Center. "Sixty cents of every consumer food dollar goes into the costs and profits of processing and marketing."

"Processing and marketing" for the small farmer has usually meant selling fresh produce at lucrative, but seasonal roadside stands, farmer's markets, and pick-your-own operations.

But Bills envisions much more. Processed farm foods, he said, have a higher profit margin and can be sold to restaurants and stores as well as to customers at roadside stands. Processing might entail washing, sorting, and packaging fresh produce for restaurants and supermarkets; shelling and packaging dried beans, nuts, or sunflower seeds for health-food stores; preparing specialty flours and meals; producing, processing, and packaging honey; and renting beehives for pollination.

At the Eastern Regional Research Center, scientists have worked for years on small-scale processing technologies, Bills said. ERRC researchers have invented an inexpensive means of producing premium maple syrup and preventing its spoilage through pasteurization by ultraviolet light or chemical treatment. Of great value to orchardists is ERRC's build-it-at-home $200 cider pasteurizer. "It's an outstanding example of 'appropriate' technology," he noted.

The production of partially processed foods, such as apple slices ready for pies and edible sprouts, is also under study. Sprouts and sprout seeds represent an increasing market, said Bills, and offer a high profit. Bean seeds for sprouting sell for up to five times the price of dried beans for cooking.

In order to gain entry into the food market, the small farmer's products will have to be unique, inexpensive or possess a highly appealing image of "down-on-the-farm" quality. The best food products for introduction, paradoxically, may well be those with a limited market. Large food companies cannot afford to manufacture a myriad of low-volume regional, specialty, or ethnic foods.

A good example of this, according to Bills, is the small, yet successful, regional processing of sausage and cured meats, ethnic foods, pickles, preserves, and specialty cheeses.

Establishment of a food processing operation will require capital and risk, said Bills, but neither is a stranger to the farmer. However, specific knowledge of both the technical and legal aspects of commercial processing of food is essential. From moral and legal standpoints, the food sold must be safe. The liability, publicity, and cost of product recall surrounding a single outbreak of a food-borne illness have bankrupted some companies, Bills noted.

to do. She said that in the class she is not a teacher, but a moderator and a resource person.

As a quilter herself, Winslow feels that quilting should return to the "old days" when it was a scrap craft. She said early quilters used materials they had in their home, a scrap from a dress, old curtains, or a tatter tablecloth to make a quilt design that was definitely interesting and enjoyable to work with and look at.

She also told the group that it is a very simple craft, using very simple sewing techniques. "If you can make a garment you can make a quilt."

The most difficult part she said is the cutting, because it must be precise and the finished quilt is only as good as the time and precision you take with it.

As a quiltmaker and teacher she stresses the use of cotton or dress weight wools. "The natural fabrics are tried and true." She stated that the polyester fabric, which are really plastics, can't withstand the repeated use of washing and drying and they definitely do not stitch well.

Mr. and Mrs. Winslow are both quilt enthusiasts and have collected quilts in all forms for numerous years. They collect anything pertaining to the craft — quilts, quilt tops, pieces of quilt tops, and frames. The couple added many times when they buy for their collection, they look at the aesthetics, the design and color more than the construction of the piece.

Winslow believes that organizations like the Chambersburg Quilting Guild will make a big difference in the perception of the history and art of quilt-making.

The organizers of the new Quilting Guild closed the first meeting encouraging the quilters to bring new members to the next Guild meeting which will be held on March 27. For more information about the Chambersburg Quilting Guild, contact Ailene Chutter, 264-6981.

The road from pigs to prime dairy cattle was no picnic for York's Joseph Stump

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK NEW SALEM — The road to success from a half-dead baby pig to an 830-acre, 100-head milking herd and dairy retail store is a long way.

Not that it was all easy.

But for Joseph and Glendora Stump, R6 York the long hours, hard work, and uncertainties of weather, prices and economics have been repaid many times over in the satisfaction of doing what they love best.

At the February convention of the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Association, the Stumps were honored with their second major farm award in as many months.

Members of the Dover Young Farmers chapter, Joe and Glendora received the group's award as Outstanding Young Farmers over 30, based on their farming proficiency and participation in farming and community activities. Earlier this year, they'd been recognized as Master Farmers, an honor extended annually to only a few select top operators from throughout the Mid-Atlantic area.

Ever since he can remember, Joe Stump says he has simply loved farming. A grin of remembrance creases his face as he recalls how, even as a youngster farming was far more interesting than the classroom.

"Even back when dad had horses, I liked the fieldwork. And I liked the cows, too, even though we milked the 'hard way' then," he reminisces.

One of eleven children born to a family devastated by the economic hardships of the Great Depression, Joe remembers how he pestered his father to give him something of his own to raise and care for.

"But Dad was always determined to treat us all alike, and he didn't want to give me something if he couldn't do the same for the other ten children," he adds.

Then one day, a litter of pigs was born, with a "runt" in the batch, barely clinging to life.

"Dad said I could have that one, if I could keep it alive," continues Joe, as he tells the tale, relaxing for a few brief minutes in the cozy farm office.

Piglet snuggled under his arm, a thrilled 14-year-old raced toward the farmhouse of the "old Snyder place," now paved under the Queen's Plaza Shopping Center, near Spry. With Joe's lavish tender loving care — and frequent feedings with a baby bottle — the piglet thrived.

At 250 pounds, the pig went off to auction, bringing Joe his first farm income, at the price of 30 cents per pound, or $75. Its sale was a beginning lesson on farm price fluctuations — just days before, his dad had sold hogs for 32 cents.

Nevertheless, to Joe, the cash was a fortune.

He reinvested it in more pigs.

From that first pig to his sprawling retail dairying complex is not the only change in farming that Joe has seen. The advances that he's taken in stride as farming has progressed are part of the resiliency that has taken Stump to his present success.

High production and fat test has always been a goal for the Stump Acres dairy herd. Milking chores keep Joe, on top of the performance of their registered Holsteins.

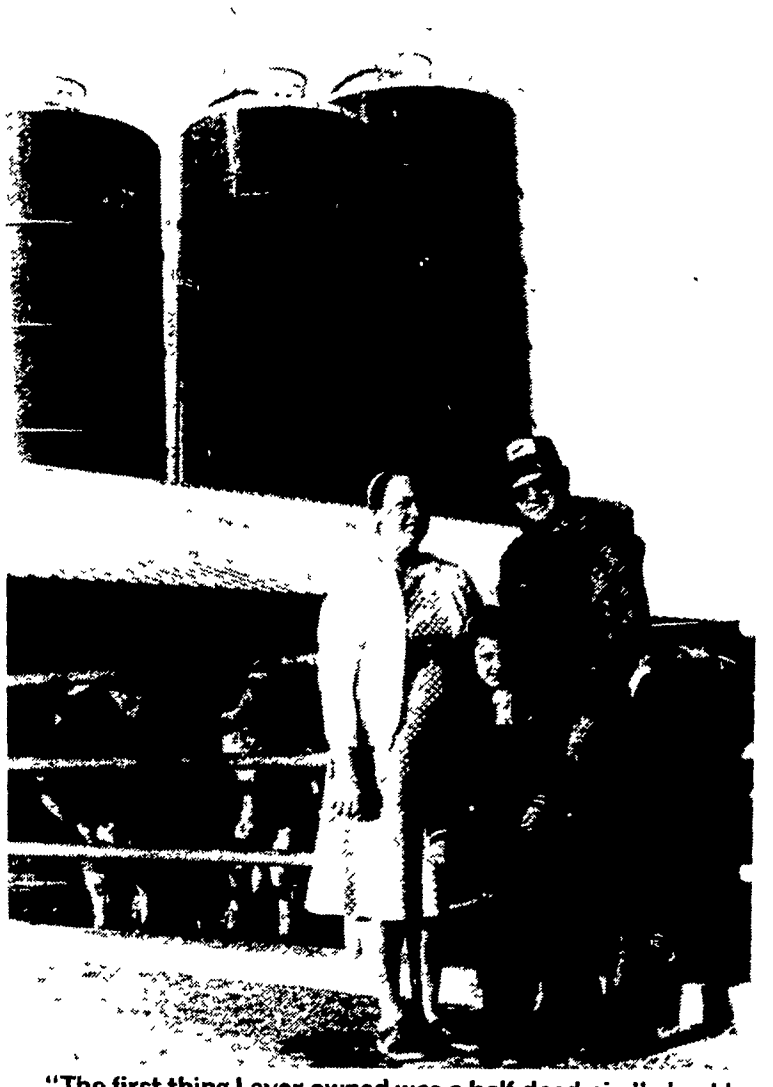
A touch of nostalgia crosses his face as he talks about the first tractor on the family farm.

"It was an old Allis-Chalmers WC model, cranked by hand, and boy, we really thought we had something. Then we got a second tractor, a Case VAC, and that one was really modern — it had a self starter. My dad couldn't keep me off that one. I'd get up early in the morning to go out to the field, and still be on that tractor seat at midnight."

Undaunted by the hardships of the depression years, the Stump family continued to be innovative about the modernization and expansion of their farm. When they moved to the rented "quarry farm," west of York, the Stumps were farming about 250 acres, some of it several miles away, quite a distance to travel in the '40's. To help harvest those widespread acres, Joe's father purchased the first seven-foot combine in York County, a Massey Ferguson model.

When Joe was 16, his father died. Overnight, Joe's responsibility changed from his few pigs to helping his mother run the entire farm. Except for a few years of alternate service work, Joe's been farming ever since.

In 1960, Joe and his younger brother John purchased the 110-acre home farm, where the Stump's now live. John moved to his Berks County farm a few years later. Joe and Glendora paid off the land before taking the next expansion step, putting up the most modern free-stall, milking parlor complex that technology could build. After the cows moved into their new facility, the Stumps remained in the house trailer that served as their home for a total of 16 years, until they built their new rancher while they put a firm foundation under their farming business.



"The first thing I ever owned was a half-dead pig," chuckles Joe Stump. He saved the pig, and parlayed his future into a highly successful dairy herd and retail store, depending heavily on the support and help of wife Glendora. With the couple is their youngest, Katrina.

From his neat files, in the office between the retail store and parlor set-up Joe today can pull out all the cow records of the family herd, going way back to 1949 when the milking string first went on test. Herd averages have always been above the norm. Back in 1963, for instance, the Stump's 46 Holsteins were producing 14,254 pounds milk, with 540 pounds fat.

The present herd of 100-plus averages 16,536 milk, with 618 fat. Most of that production goes into the market by way of the Stump Acres raw milk sales store, rung through the cash register to the tune of some 350 gallons per day.

While milk sales pay most of the bills, Joe enjoys a dairy herd sideline: the selling of breeding stock. With no outside purchases into the herd in years, Stump's registered pedigrees are long in the Stump Acres prefix.

Familiar names like Skokie, Ormsby, and Pontiac sprinkle the registries, Stump Acres Jet Star Moon Jetro, the home-bred son in service at Golden Genes in California, traces back to the Pontiac lines. Joe's holding some 70 heifers from Jetro and says he's pleased with their growthiness and type character.

Many of the Stump Acres breeding stock customers are repeaters, and sales now total over 255, scattered across Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, West Virginia, Iowa, Texas Illinois, California and Puerto Rico. A dozen head have already gone to new homes this year, in 1978, 92 head were sold, and 80 head went to buyers during 1980.

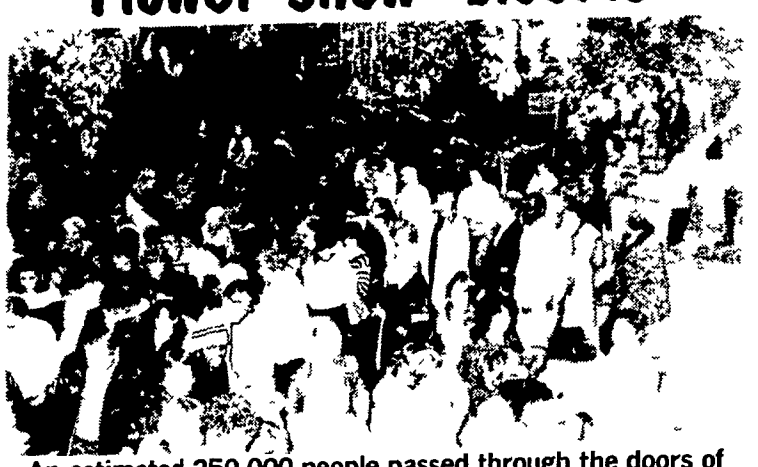
Flower show 'blooms' with success



An estimated 250,000 people passed through the doors of the Civic Center to the recent Philadelphia Flower Show.

First place exhibit, "Vines and Climbers trained on a form," is a tiger made solely of baby's breath.

BY KAREN PEIFFER

PHILADELPHIA — The opening of the Philadelphia Flower Show on Sunday, March 7 celebrated the coming of spring as well as Philadelphia's 300th birthday.

Exhibits were historically designed to take the public on a beautiful walk through the past four centuries. One such exhibit, "Grove of Tall Pines" by the Philadelphia Zoo, featured an old hut framed by branches and covered with dearskin.

Not only was the show colorful and fresh, but educational, demonstrative and creative as well. Live demonstrations throughout the day provided entertainment and new ideas for the passerby. Several exhibits such as "To Prune or Not to Prune" by Abraham Lincoln High School in Philadelphia, were constructed purely for educational purposes.

The Teleflora Penn-Jersey Unit, led by Joseph Genuardi of Norristown, presented "World Wide Floral Exhibits", a collection of the many types of arrangements sent by wire. This tasteful display of floral creativity captured "The Flower Show Award."

W.B. Saul High School of Agricultural Sciences in Philadelphia taught the general public about Fox Chase Farm. The farm is a 115 acre plot in Northeastern Philadelphia designed to instruct students in livestock forage production and other farming techniques.

The Philadelphia Flower Show has always been a favorite of many as well as a success for the Philadelphia Horticultural

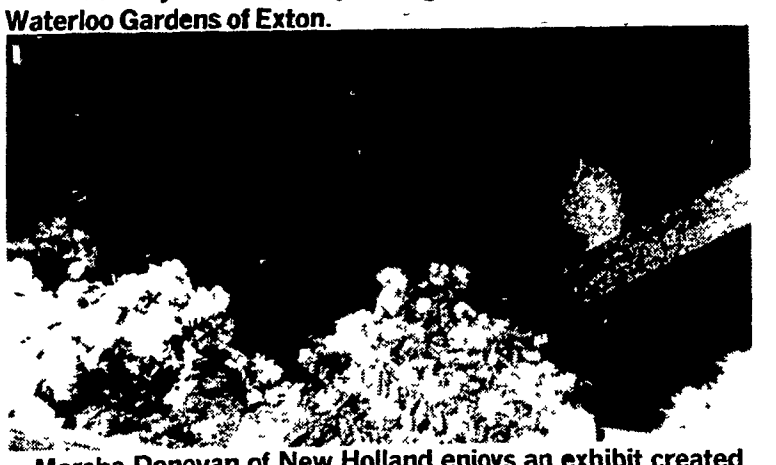
"A Country Garden," was designed and constructed by Waterloo Gardens of Exton.



Marsha Donovan of New Holland enjoys an exhibit created for children by Childhood Friends, Inc. of Philadelphia.

Berks honors 4-H dairy club members

LEESPORT — The 4-H Dairy Clubs in Berks County honored the achievements of its members Friday night at the 1982 4-H Dairy Banquet held at the Bernville Grange.

A capacity crowd of members, leaders, parents and supporters of the 4-H Dairy program in the county enjoyed watching the county's five dairy clubs participate in a Dairy Bowl contest as part of the evening's program. Carl Brown, of F.M. Brown & Sons who conducted the contest, had challenging questions for the team members. After several rounds of tough competition the victorious team to claim the champion trophy was the Northern Berks 4-H Dairy Club consisting of members Connie Ohlinger, Mohrsville; Carol & Patti Dreisbach, Hamburg; and Harold Dietrich, Hamburg.

Starting off the awards program was the presentation by Karen Taylor, Extension Agent, of a scholarship certificate to William Zollers, Jr., Mertztown, a former member of the Eastern Berks 4-H Dairy Club and now a freshman at Penn State. William received a $500 scholarship from DeKalb Ag Research, Inc., sponsors of the 1981 Agricultural Careers scholarship program of the National 4-H Council.

Berks County Dairy Princess, Betty Jean Hoch, was introduced next and she assisted with the presentation of project book and blueform awards. Trophies were presented to the following members for their outstanding dairy project books. 8 & 9 yr. old division - Christopher Blatt, Robesonia, member of the Western Berks 4-H Dairy Club; 10 & 11 yr. old division - Jonathon Grimes, Strausstown, member of the Western Berks 4-H Dairy Club; 12 & 13 yr. old division - Christine Dietrich, Hamburg, member of the Northern Berks 4-H Dairy Club; 14 & 15 yr. old division - Harold Dietrich, Hamburg, member of the Northern Berks 4-H Dairy Club; 16 & 17 yr. old - Clark Sattazahn, Womelsdorf, member of the Stouchsburg 4-H Dairy Club; 18 & 19 yr. old division - Gary Kurtz, Fleetwood, member of the Eastern Berks 4-H Dairy Club.

The winners in the blueform competition who received trophies were: 8 & 9 yr. old division - Lisa Krick, Lenhartsville, member of the Virginville 4-H Dairy Club; 10 & 11 yr. old division - Kirk Sattazahn, Womelsdorf, member of the Stouchsburg 4-H Dairy Club; 12 & 13 yr. old division - Henry Seidel, Lenhartsville, member of the Virginville 4-H Dairy Club; 14 & 15 yr. old divisoin - Patti Dreisbach, Hamburg, member of the Northern Berks 4-H Dairy Club; 16 & 17 yr. old division - Jan Adam, Hamburg, member of the Virginville 4-H Dairy Club; 18 & 19 yr. old division - Kevin Sattazahn, Womelsdorf, member of the Stouchsburg 4-H Dairy Club.

Also recognized at the banquet were Clover Farm Dairy, providers of the milk for the banquet, and the sponsors of award trophies.

The trophy sponsors were: Agri-King, American Breeders Service, Anthony's Feeds, Atlantic Breeders Co-op, Boscov's Stores, Eastern Industries, Select Sires, Interstate Milk Producers Co-op, Longacres Electric Service, Mogel Brothers Feeds, Pioneer seeds, Lehigh-Valley Farms, Stanley A. Klopp Inc., Penn-Jersey Harvestore, Barnard C. Morrissey Insurance, Northeastern Breeders Association.

Goat Works, Inc. seeks producers

LEBANON, N.J. — Dairy goat farmers who will sell milk meeting interstate shipping requirements are being sought by the Goat Works Incorporated, Lebanon, NJ 08833 (201) 236-2369.

The Goat Works has established a pasteurized fluid milk market in the Northeastern States. Price paid for milk is based on winter production and contracts will be offered to farmers prepared to start selling milk in the fall of 1982.

Interested farmers are urged to contact the Goat Works now to plan for next winter's production.

The Goat Works' Chevreese Cheese is listed in a new book, The Pocket Guide to Cheese, Barbara Ensrud, Putnam & Sons, NY, NY.

Society, the producer of the show. Show officials anticipated 250,000 people enjoyed the 4½ acres of foliage at the Philadelphia Civic Center.

Live demonstrations attracted much crowd attention, such as this one by Rosade Bonsai Studio of New Hope.

Joseph Stump

Lancaster Farming, and an occasional in the breed magazines," he adds, pleased that customers keep coming back for more.

A large percentage of the sales are young bulls. Joe "landed" in the bull market after starting a few for his own use. For a while, nearly 85 percent of the Stump herd was by his home-bred sires.

But the current merchandising market demands popular sires, so today about seventy percent of the cows are settled by artificial insemination to breed favorites, including Tradition, Ford, Pete, Tony, Gary Ideal and Marvex.

While breeding in the past emphasized production with high test, Joe's now shopping for a bit more type in his milking string matings.

"We're breeding for wider pins and front ends, for more strength," he affirms.

If greater strength is a goal for the dairy herd, it already is — and has been throughout the past — the backbone of this family-oriented operation.

Glendora supervises the retail store, assisted by daughter-in-law Charlotte and the Stump's youngest, Katrina. Oldest son Dennis is farm herdsman and his younger brother Terry is adept at a variety of chores around the field and farm. Sherrilynne, the oldest of the Stump's children, is a nurse.

Field work and machinery supervision is handled by Jerry Yohe, a long-time employee who's been with the family operation since he was 12 years old. He keeps the 700 owned and 400 rented acres planted and harvested on schedule. Crops include over 400 acres of corn for cash grain plus ample plantings for silage, 255 in wheat, plus considerable acreage in hay, some oats, barley and clover.

Joe is president of the state's raw milk producer and distributor organization, holding that office for a decade, and Glendora is secretary. He's been a leader in the county's DHIA, Farmers Association, and extension board, and serves as a dairy leader for the Stoverstown 4-H club. The family are active members of the Shrewsbury Dunkard Brethren Church, where Glendora has been instrumental in helping to raise funds for a beginning church school for elementary age children.

Bazooka augers and U-trough conveyors keep your systems going longer . . . smoother . . . safer.

BAZOOKA®
GRAIN MOVING SYSTEMS

Components that move grain can be as important as the storage bins or drying bins you choose. Augers are the heart of your system because they do the work . . . keep you going during the busy harvest time.

Bazooka augers are long lasting and smooth running. You have a wide choice of capacities, accessories and drives. You can also expand any Bazooka system with a minimum of expense.

BAZOOKA transport augers have chrome-plated intake flighting that doubles its life, a galvanized drive shaft that reduces maintenance time, and permanently lubricated, precision machined chain reducer drive with cast iron housing. Plus many other timesaving, convenience and safety features.

BAZOOKA transfer augers have important differences at the drive end, like heavy duty thrust bearings; machined, cast iron sheaves, and easily adjusted motor mounts supported equally on all four corners.

BAZOOKA sweeps and unloading augers can make quick work of emptying out a bin. Portable types can be moved from one bin to another while permanent types are driven by powerheads located outside the bin.

BAZOOKA Grainclean'r is a rotary type scalper/cleaner with a built-in fines collector.

NOW is the time to PLAN, Budget and Select YOUR STORAGE, DRYING and HANDLING SYSTEM.

Derstein appointed Atty. David C. Patten as chairman of elections for Monday's balloting and Brown appointed Atty. John Donaghy as chairman of elections on Tuesday.

Reelected to three-year terms as PCA directors were Brown and Derstein. Reelected to similar FLBA posts were Stover and Harold A. Knechel, Harleysville, Montgomery County.

Nominating committees named for 1983 include Walton Hackman, Montgomery County, S. Michael Mowrer and George P. Lamborn, Chester County, for the PCA and Alvin L. Delp, Montgomery County, Willis Hocking and Roy S. Kolb, Chester County, for the FLBA.

Entertainment for both evenings featured John W. Gunther, the singing sheriff of Madison County, Indiana, who combined humorous song and guitar strumming with messages concerning law enforcement.

Three PA bulls enter Atlantic service

LANCASTER — Atlantic Breeders Cooperative has selected three Pennsylvania bulls to enter their young sire sampling program for 1982. Approximately 50 young bulls with strong pedigrees will enter the program this year, according to Harry Roth, Atlantic's operations director.

During sampling, each of these bulls will be randomly mated to approximately 600 Holstein cows through artificial insemination in herds owned by Atlantic members. They will remain at Lancaster headquarters for the next four years as they continue to grow and await evaluation of their progeny.

The three young sires are: 15H43 Heindel Lucas-Et, bred by Grace and George Seidel of Womelsdorf, Berks County. His sire, Glendell Arlinda Chief, is classified "Excellent and received the Gold Medal award. Heindel's dam, Heindel Round Oak Lista Lee, is classified "Excellent" in the Seidel herd. She is an Elevation daughter with production records to 26,840M and 1063F with a 4.0% test.

15H446 Pequea-Meadows Jaguar, bred by Kenneth and Jere Skiles of Narvon, Lancaster County. His sire, Arlinda Penstar, is a popular bull currently in service through Atlantic. Jaguar's dam, Con-Noll Progressor Joneda, is classified "Very Good" and has production records to 24,380M and 792F.

15H451 Vio-Net Pabst Vagabond-ET, bred by Dale and Dorthea Hostetter, of Parkesburg, Chester County. His sire, Char-Sam Elevation Pabst, is classified "Very Good" — 88 and received the Gold Medal award. Vagabond's dam, Quesmeade Violet Performer, is scored "Excellent," has production records to 29,430M and 1,050F, and is a daughter of the former Atlantic bull, Romandale Dividend Performer.

If progeny evaluation results prove satisfactory, these bulls will return for extensive service throughout the Cooperative's 12,600-member area and their semen may be marketed to other parts of the world.

These bulls are available to dairymen who call the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative toll-free phone numbers: Pennsylvania—800/732-0391; Delaware, Maryland, and New Jersey—800/233-0216; Lancaster; local-569-0411.

Trojan cites new hybrid

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Pfizer Genetics, producers and marketers of Trojan brand seed corn, announce the addition of a new hybrid, T891 to their corn product line.

T891 is a high yielding, three-way hybrid with a relative maturity of 89 days.

For farmers in the 85-90 day maturity zones, T891 features seedling vigor. In addition, T891 is widely adapted to other areas. It has performed well in on-the-farm tests in a variety of soil and growing conditions and under a wide range of management practices. T891 competes well with single cross hybrids of its relative maturity.

F.M. Brown's honors top dairy producers

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

KUTZTOWN — Top dairy producers with high DHI herds in milk and or fat in Berks, Montgomery, Lehigh and Northampton counties utlizing the feeding programs of F. M. Brown's Sons, Inc., Birdsboro, were honored at an appreciation program and dinner Thursday, March 4, at the Kutztown Grange Hall.

Among topics discussed during the program, attended by more than 375 persons, were nutrient requirements of the high producing dairy cow and raising calves by Larry Muller, Penn State dairy specialist.

Honored with the presentation of plaques for their herd production records in 1981 were:

Charles and Tim Kissling, Robesonia — high herd for fat in Berks County, 66 cows on test, with 21,373 lbs. of milk and 832 lbs. of fat.

Steve and Anne Janos, Mohrsville — high herd for milk in Berks County, 35 cows, 22,108 lbs. of milk and 810 lbs. of fat.

Heindel Farms, Womelsdorf — herd over 800 lbs. of fat in Berks County, 27 cows, 20,457 lbs. of milk and 808 lbs. of fat.

Merrill Mest, Schwenksville — high herd for fat in Montgomery County, 40 cows, 16,474 lbs. of milk and 734 lbs. of fat.

David Longacre, Hereford — high herd for milk in Montgomery County, 90 cows, 19,233 lbs. of milk and 689 lbs. of fat.

Paul Semmel, Schecksville — high herd for milk in Lehigh County, 72 cows, 19,493 lbs. of milk and 732 lbs. of fat.

Keystone Farms, Easton — high herd for milk and fat in Northampton County, 78 cows, 21,376 lbs. of milk and 806 lbs. of fat.

In making the presentations, Carl Brown, sales manager, pointed out that Brown's provided feed for four of the 16 herds in the state with DHI production records over 800 lbs. of fat.

In addition to the discussion of feeding the high producing cow and raising calves by Muller, other subjects covered at the day-long session included:

Walter Kennett, director of nutrition at Brown's, discussed proper use of the computerized dairy and beef ration printouts.

John Azzone, of Church and Dwight, outlined the use of sodium bicarb in dairy and beef diets.

Jim Balenger, of Staley Livestock Products, discussed the use of Sweetlix blocks.

Tom Brown, office manager of the Brown's Mill at Birdsboro, gave a slide presentation on that facility.

In his discussion of feeding the high producing dairy cow, Muller stressed the critical period between peak lactation and peak feed intake. Generally, he explained, the lactation peak will come in the second month and peak feed intake in the third month. During this interim period, the cow is not eating to match her production and will generally lose weight.

"Producers should try to get the feed intake period closer to the lactation peak," Muller said.

Muller advised that careful consideration be given to conditioning of the dry cow prior to freshening.

"The easier a cow comes through parturition, the better her lactation will be and the sooner her feed intake will peak," he said.

Dry cow rations should contain about 11 percent crude protein and 55 to 60 percent TDN, he said.

The dairy specialist also stressed the importance of the frequency of feeding the high producing cow. Frequent feeding stabilizes the rumen and reduces the fluctuation of the pH.

Muller went on to explain that the use of buffers, especially in early lactation, will help to increase the peak in feed intake and thereby boost milk production during the first weeks of lactation, particularly with high ensiled rations.

Muller also highlighted added fat in a dairy ration. He advised the amount be kept to about six percent of the total ration and 3 to 4 percent of the total grain. Noting animal fat is preferable to vegetable fat, he said it should replace part of the grain and not the forage.

He cautioned that fat may decrease fiber digestion and tie up some of the calcium in the ration. The economics of using fat versus corn must also be checked.

Discussing protein in a ration, the dairy specialist explained that ensiled feeds have a high percentage of very soluble proteins and the addition of a protein supplement with some rumen insoluble protein will help high producers achieve peak production.

In his discussion of raising calves, Muller stressed the importance of a good milk replacer with at least 20 percent protein and a minimum of 10 to 15 percent fat. Getting colostrum into calves the first few hours is also critical and he demonstarated how a colostrometer may be used to gauge the antibody level of colostrum.

Another key to successful calf raising is getting calves started early on a high quality calf starter. He concluded his talk by pointing to the need for dry, draft-free housing for calves.

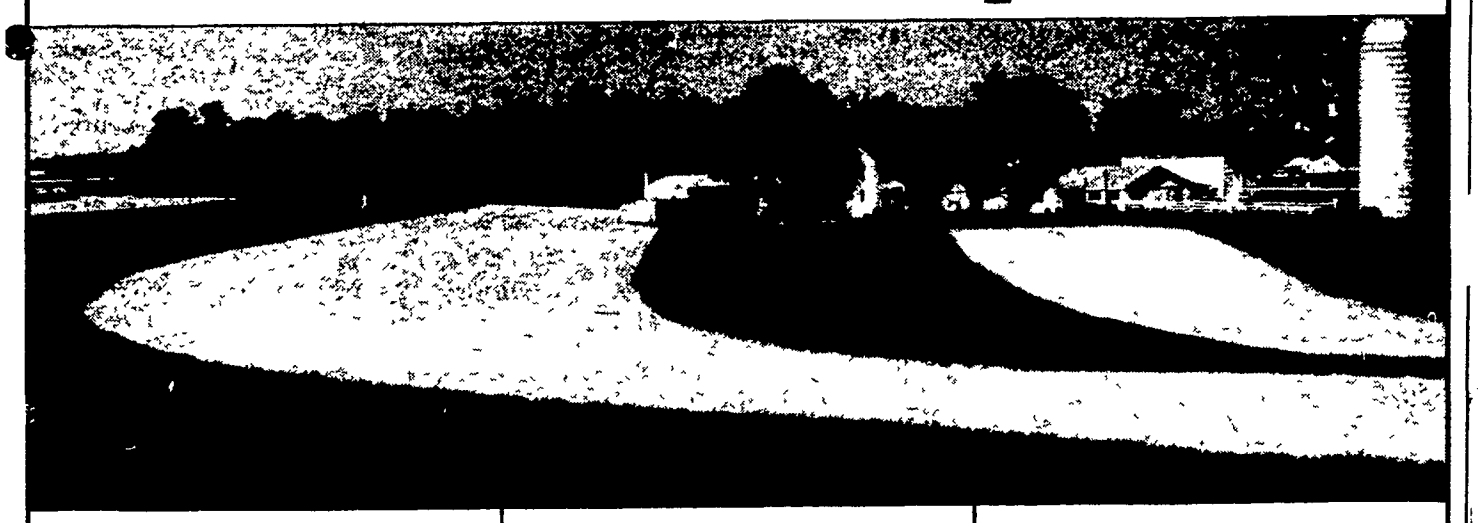
Herman Espy used smart crop management to get 10 ton alfalfa yield



Herman Espy of Spruce Creek, Pennsylvania combined sound crop management practice with the advice of Agway Farm Enterprise Serviceperson Dick Rowe to set a Pennsylvania State University Alfalfa Grower yield record. Mr. Espy produced 10.7 tons of hay equivalent, and nearly 1.8 tons of crude protein per acre, with yields recorded and verified by his local county agent, Harold Lockoff of Huntingdon County, Pennsylvania.

Prior to planting 18 pounds freshly inoculated Saranac AR and 6 pounds of Pennlate Orchard Grass per acre, and band seeding it lightly with "companion" oats, Espy's 18 acre field had been in no-till corn for the past five years. Weed and pest control were excellent, and combined with proper levels of fertilization and cooperative weather, a terrific harvest was insured. But even Espy was delighted with the results.

Your Farm Enterprise Salesperson can help you put together a total crop management program suited to your farm and objectives. Agway can also provide you with the limestone, quality seed, fertilizer, pesticides, inoculum, custom application and advice you need to produce a top notch crop. Call your local Agway today!

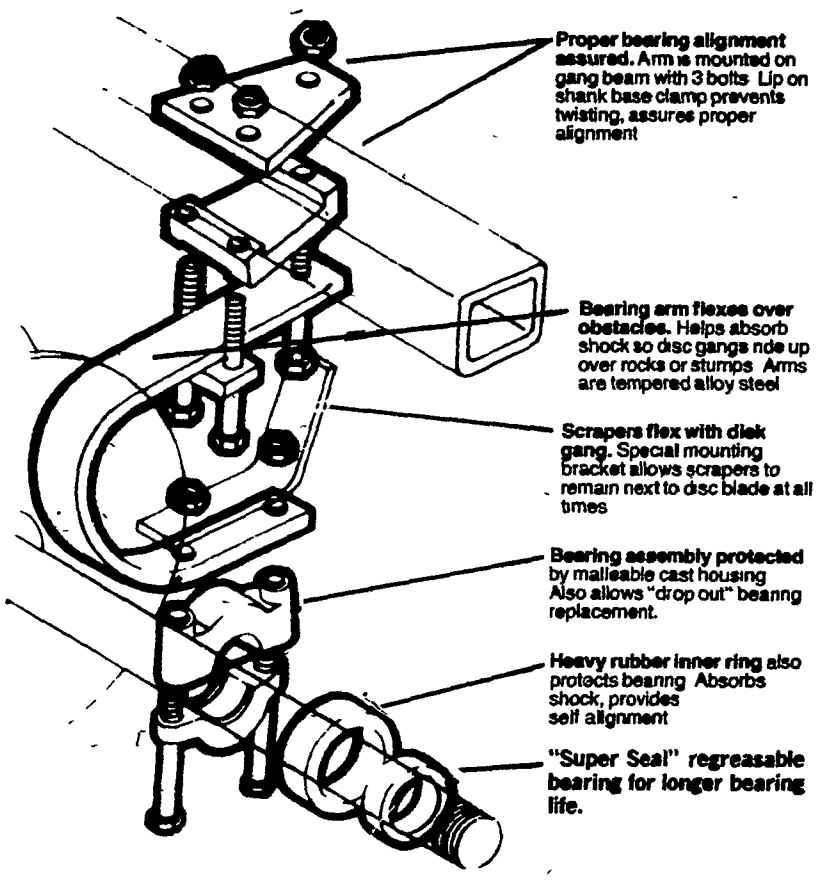
WHAT YOU NEED IS A KRAUSE ROCKFLEX DISC

WHY?

BECAUSE OF KRAUSE SUPERIOR "ROCK-FLEX" BEARING ARM

AND HERE'S WHY IT MEANS GOOD NEWS FOR YOU!



Proper bearing alignment assured. Arm is mounted on gang beam with 3 bolts Lip on shank base clamp prevents twisting, assures proper alignment
Bearing arm flexes over obstacles. Helps absorb shock so disc gangs ride up over rocks or stumps Arms are tempered alloy steel
Scrapers flex with disk gang. Special mounting bracket allows scrapers to remain next to disc blade at all times Bearing assembly protected by malleable cast housing Also allows "drop out" bearing replacement.
Heavy rubber inner ring also protects bearing Absorbs shock, provides self alignment
"Super Seal" regreasable bearing for longer bearing life.

Unique C-shaped bearing arm:

- Flexes over obstacles
- Protects disc blades from breakage
- Protects tie rods from bending
- Protects spools from breakage
- Absorbs shock — minimizes bearing wear
- Improves trash clearance

A Krause innovation! The "Rock-Flex" bearing arm was invented by Krause in 1965.

Normal working depth.

As disc encounters rock, C-arm compresses, allowing gang to ride up over obstacle.

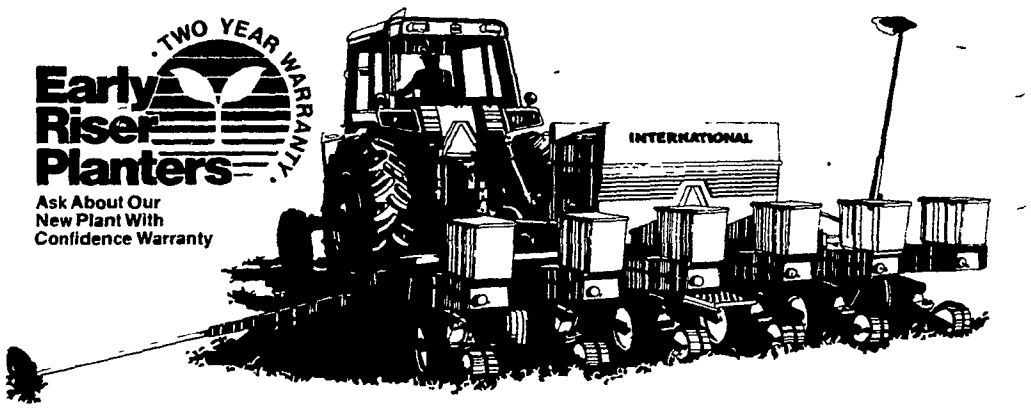
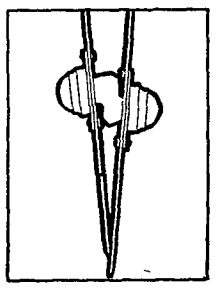
Let Us Give You A Demonstration

EARLY RISER PLANTS IN CONVENTIONAL OR NO-TILL FIELDS...WITHOUT SPECIAL ATTACHMENTS.

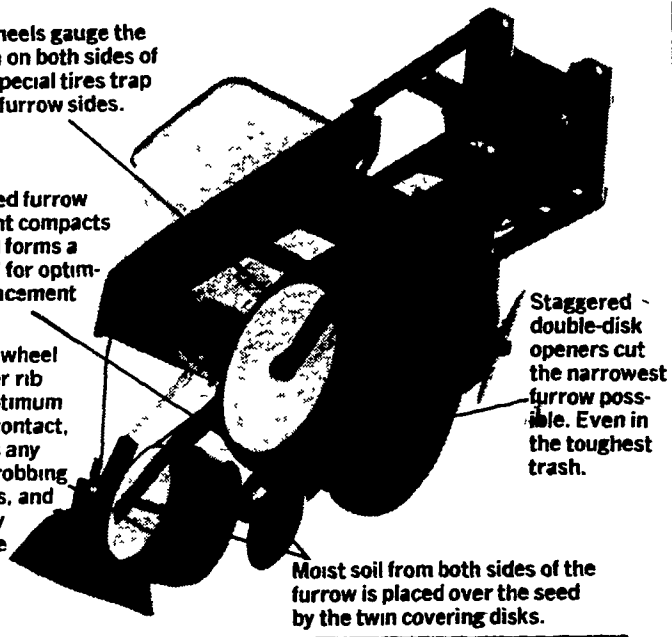




Exclusive staggered double disk openers slice through even hard soil with ease

The row unit is designed to create an ideal seed environment.

SET THE DIAL FOR PRECISION DEPTH CONTROL



Equalizing wheels gauge the opener depth on both sides of the furrow. Special tires trap moist soil on furrow sides.
The patented furrow firming point compacts the soil and forms a narrow "V" for optimum seed placement
The press wheel with center rib insures optimum soil/seed contact, eliminates any moisture-robbing air pockets, and helps early emergence Staggered double-disk openers cut the narrowest furrow possible. Even in the toughest trash.
Moist soil from both sides of the furrow is placed over the seed by the twin covering disks.

GEHL®

The #1 Choice Of Our Nations Farmers

Why? They have a 21" Mill with 66" reversible hammers which gives you more cutting action, not as much pounding which makes dust. Due to this fact you can use one size coarser screen than any competitive brand, that should tell you something. Another big plus is the self contained total hydraulics in loading and unloading augers which means no sprockets to trouble you.

The Hedlund Basin agitator has all controls at your fingertips. Multiple spool valve assembly with four independent hydraulic functions.

The four inch agitating nozzle is veined to concentrate and control the discharge blast. Nozzle is hydraulically controlled with operating radius of 110° horizontal and 60° vertical using flexible reinforced 6" rib hose.

Big 25 inch impeller operates at 540 R.P.M. Uses 6 large forward sweep blades. Disintegrator bar extends from the impeller breaking up manure solids, offering a greater non-restricted flow into the pump. The Basin agitator pump comes in 24 and 30 ft. ft. lengths.

AG-BAG CORPORATION

Exclusive Dealer For Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia Note We Need Part Time & Full Time Salesmen for These Areas

The Vicon KM-240 cuts and conditions the tallest, tangled, wettest, heaviest, hay This new mower-conditioner eliminates a pick-up reel, so you can put up more hay - FASTER. With a working width of 7'10", it can mow twice as much area in a day as most competitive models. Most competitors use a pick-up reel, which limits ground speed, adds maintenance problems and allows leaf loss.

The Vicon six-disc cutter bar feeds your crop directly, stem first, into rubber rollers that condition green hay or wet grass. It dries faster and bales easier, saving time and labor.

The KM-240 has no chains, no belts, no sickle bar If you need only a mower, look at the Vicon CM-165 (4 discs-5½' working width) or the CM-240 6 discs-7'10" working width). Both make clean cuts in heavy grass or tangled crops.

See at TRIPLE H EQUIPMENT or RED WING FARMS or Ask For a Free Demonstration.

Farmix appealed to a supreme court, and won.

More than 10 000 hogs served on the court And the trial lasted over four years The verdict Farmix swine feed concentrate was proved far superior on all counts swine performance carcass leanness cost of gain

What clinched the case for Farmix? In brief research probed far beyond the measure of crude protein levels used by most swine feed manufacturers. Rather Master Mix Research redefined the requirements of swine for essential amino acids The objective was to proportion amino acid intake according to the hogs needs for fast efficient daily gains

Next Master Mix evaluated the various feedstuffs to identify amino acid availability and the lowest cost combination that would deliver the required amino acid pattern

The country s highest court market hogs themselves bore witness to faster rates of gain Improved feed conversions Lower feed cost

Then all last year leading swine producers weighed the evidence and came to a unanimous decision Farmix really works It s inexpensive and versatile And helps build healthier bottom-line profits

State Dept. official addresses E-Town YF

MOUNT JOY — A State Department official gave a mild, half-hearted opinion that a grain embargo would not be used by the Reagan Administration as a weapon in the cold war against the Soviet Union at the banquet of the Elizabethtown Young Farmer Chapter last Saturday night.

"We can all regard any grain embargo as a pretty unlikely possibility," said Brian R. Furness, Chief of the Food Policy Division of the State Department.

Following the reading of a prepared speech, which was well laced with bureaucratic statistics and jargon, Furness avoided answering the one question posed from the audience.

Amos H. Funk, Lancaster County farmland preservation leader, asked why the administration permits the importing of subsidized dairy products into the U.S., specifically casein.

Even after repeated questioning, Furness never directly answered the query.

"Our studies indicate that U.S. producers would make casein if the support program were juggled but not if action were taken to block the importation," Furness said.

"We complain about import restrictions, but we're under pressure to protect our own producers, such as through the dairy support program.

Our import restrictions are as annoying to other countries as their restrictions are to us."

Furness went on to predict that agricultural issues would continue to play an important role in foreign policy throughout the 1980's and beyond.

Following the talk, the presentation of some local baloney, among other area ag products, to the speaker brought a lively reaction from the audience.

Furness commented:

"This might be a first. Some baloney going back to Washington."

Highlight of the banquet program, attended by some 260 persons in Hostetter's Dining Hall, were the installation of officers for the coming year and the presentation of various awards to outstanding chapter members.

Taking over the president's gavel from retiring president, Gilbert Martin, is James Hershey, who was just named Outstanding Young Farmer in the state. Other officers are Dennis Drager, vice president; Galen Kopp, secretary; Clair Oberholtzer, treasurer; Robert N. Brandt, public relations director; and John Garber, chairman of the nominating committee.

Chapter advisor is William Erickson, vo-ag teacher at Elizabethtown High School.

Receiving awards were:

First placings in crop production – Ken Myer, field corn and mixed hay; Gilbert Martin, wheat and barley; Joe Wivell, small grains, hay silage and dairy judging; Bob Brandt, alfalfa hay; Gerald Risser, grass hay; and Jim Hershey, corn silage and other silage.

Dairy awards – Risser Bros., high individual cow with 25,739 lbs. of milk; Ken Myers, high individual cow with 1085 lbs. of fat; D. Lamar Witmer, high herd with average of 21,560 lbs. of milk, high herd with an average of 761 lbs. of fat and most improved milk production with an average increase of 3,954 lbs. of milk over 1980; and J. Richard Snavely with an average increase of 130 lbs. of butterfat over 1980.

The chapter's Outstanding Young Farmer under 30 for 1982 is Bob Brandt.

The Community Service Award went to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wivell.

Distinguished Service Awards for their support of the chapter's program went to Dean Steinhart, formerly of the Elizabethtown Schools administration and now at Northern Lebanon; Pennfield Feeds, Grubb Feeds, Penn-Jersey Harvestore and Farmer's Fertilizer.

Brief remarks were given by Randy Greenly, of the Elizabethtown FFA Chapter; and Earl Stauffer, past president of the Pennsylvania Young Farmers.—DA

Flanking Brian Furness, Chief of the State Department's Food Policy Division and speaker before Elizabethtown Young Farmers are Jim Hershey, left, new chapter president; and William Erikson, vo-ag teacher chapter advisor.

Among award winners honored at Elizabethtown Young Farmers annual banquet are, from the left, Joe and Don Risser, who had the high milk producing cow during the past year; Ken Myer, who had the highest fat producer, as well as the top placings in field corn and mixed hay; and D. Lamar Witmer, who took three dairy awards -- high herd average for milk and fat and the most improved herd average.

Holding plaque as the chapter's Outstanding Young Farmer under 30 are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brandt.

Bahr joins AGCC registry department

PETERBOROUGH, N.H. — Bernard Heisner, Executive Secretary of the American Guernsey Cattle Club announces the employment of Darrell D. Bahr of Cherokee, Iowa as Registry Department Director, effective March 15, 1982.

Bahr, his wife, Virginia and two children will locate in Peterborough, NH for about eight months before moving to the Columbus, Ohio area at the time the American Guernsey Cattle Club makes its move to Columbus for joint occupancy with the American Jersey Cattle Club.

During this transition period in Peterborough, Bahr will be working closely with Irving E. Nichols who has served effectively and with excellence as the director of the Registry Department for over 35 years.

Bahr, a native of Ohio, has had excellent, varied experience in the livestock industry, ranging from artificial insemination training to parts department manager for a farm equipment retailer to working as a DHI testing supervisor in Ohio.

He is an August 1980 graduate of Ohio State University, with a Bachelor of Science degree While attending college, Bahr worked in the main office of Ohio Ag Services as assistant coordinator of records, giving him a thorough knowledge of DHI reports and procedures. Later, while still in college, he was employed by Select Sires, Inc. as a tour guide and provided assistance to staff on special projects. This led to his most recent employment with Select Sires as a sales and service representative in western Iowa, the first person to represent Select Sires in this area Prior to entering college, Bahr served four years in the U.S. Navy as an operations specialist (radarman).

Darrell Bahr is looking forward to the opportunity to efficiently, accurately and effectively build the Herd Register for those breeders working with Guernseys cattle.

Inedible game can now be sold

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania hunters are now permitted to sell the inedible parts of game birds and animals, according to the PA Game Commission.

A new law provides for further utilization of an already harvested resource and should eliminate "under the counter" black market sales of inedible wildlife parts.

According to Gerald Kirkpatrick, the Game Commission's chief of law enforcement, "The new statue is designed to allow Pennsylvania hunters to make almost total utilization of harvested wildlife.

"Within 90 days after the close of the season in which the birds or animals were taken, the hunter may sell to another person, company or corporation the inedible parts of game animals legally harvested."

Kirkpatrick went on to explain that hunters will now be allowed to sell deer antlers, squirrel tails, pheasant and grouse feathers, and various other game parts to manufacture fishing flies, lures and other paraphernalia.

Sales of inedible parts are limited to game legally harvested in open seasons. The privilege is not extended to persons destroying wildlife for crop damage or to deer and other animals killed on state highways.

Persons who desire to sell inedible parts of game birds or animals who are uncertain about the new statute provisions should contact their district game protector for further information.

Progress is important, but a new tractor does not make your MAXI-POWER PTO generator obsolete because of a different speed of a PTO shaft. All MAXI-POWER PTO's have interchangeable gearboxes. Gearboxes are carried in stock and can be installed in minutes by our servicemen, and at a very low price. Call us today for a generator to keep pace with your farm's growth. Whether PTO speed is 540 or 1000, MAXI-POWER is the only generator for you.

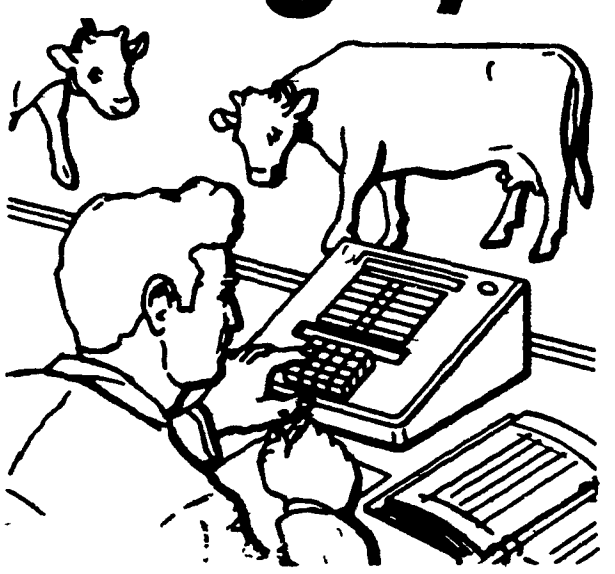
DE LAVAL®

RationMaster™ Feeding System



DeLaval technology enables you to place the dairy herd's feeding program under computer control. With the RationMaster Feeding System, each cow gets out the concentrate needed for optimum milk production. Components include neck-worn transponders...single-stall feeding stations where grain is dispensed automatically...and a Computer Command Center where a micro-processor stores and retrieves data on individual animals.

Reduced labor, more milk, less wasted feed, healthier cows, and shortened calving intervals are typical benefits. Let us explain more about the RationMaster Feeding System — Module One of the advanced DeLaval® HerdMaster™ Management System.

Leon Riegel

Synthea Maas

Tim Trayer

Edgar Sheaffer

A reader asks:

What is the best way to minimize disease transmission when introducing a new animal into the herd?

Dr. Riegel comments:

The best procedure for bringing new animals onto a farm is certainly not the most convenient, nor the most economical, nor are the majority of farms equipped to provide the segregation and isolation that is necessary to prevent what could be a disasterous situation if disease strikes.

Three points to consider are

✓Ask yourself these questions. Where does it come from? Has it been raised in a healthy environment? Are there any specific disease problems in the area from where the animal originated? Could I be buying some else's problem? To answer some of these questions, demand a veterinary health certificate. In cases of breeding cattle, a certificate is not only a good idea, but a must.

✓Know what vaccinations the animal has been given. Is this animal vaccinated against the diseases I routinely vaccinate against on my farm? Is it vaccinated for some diseases that I don't vaccinate against? If either of these two situations are present, you should check the advisability of having your herd and the new animal vaccinated alike.

✓Isolate the animal entering the farm for a sufficient time before exposing the animals already there. This is the part that most people rely on, due to lack of appropriate facilities, but still a very important point. Animals should be isolated to prevent direct contact (nose to nose), contact through the feed (common feed or water trough) or contact through common use of facilities. The ideal length of time for isolation is 30 days.

The Milk Check

TOM JURCHAK
County Agent

Cheese on the Whey

Under Section 106 of the Agriculture and Food Act of 1981, "the Secretary of Agriculture is directed to use all available authorities to the fullest extent practicable to reduce government inventories of dairy products."

However, on December 22 when President Reagan signed the new Farm Bill, he didn't wait for the Secretary. He immediately announced he was giving away 30 million pounds of processed cheese to the nation's needy.

The "needy" were identified as those people receiving public assistance, including food stamps or medical assistance. Each state had to request the amount of cheese they wanted and arrange for its distribution within the state.

Pennsylvania got 1.6 million pounds and all 67 counties have requested some, ranging from 600 pounds in Sullivan County to 551,000 in Philadelphia. Distribution will be made by volunteer organizations in each of the counties giving one five-pound block to each family who registers in advance.

Very shortly, the lines will form at each of the distribution centers to get the cheese and the media may devote a lot of time and space with pictures and rhetoric on how the dairy industry got to the point where the government had to give away the cheese to keep it from spoiling.

Everyone, of course, would favor giving it away rather than let it spoil and some would also argue that this is better than selling it at half price to some foreign country.

How much they give away will cut into commercial sales of cheese has yet to be seen, but it certainly may cause some losses.

In any case, it's bound to attract public attention in every community and producers should be prepared with knowledgeable explanations when friends and neighbors ask questions about how it happened.

Quality and Consumption

As I go to milk marketings meetings lately to discuss the milkerendum, the concern I hear voiced most often is that the dairy industry must get its act together on milk flavor and quality before any promotions can be expected to increase consumption.

Some of the complaints may be a little exaggerated but I guess as long as there's one carton of bad milk on the market, it's too much.

Everyone's agreed that you can't sell off-flavored milk, no matter how much money you spend. But if nothing more comes of the milkerendum than a determination to clean up our act, it will be worth all the heated discussions.

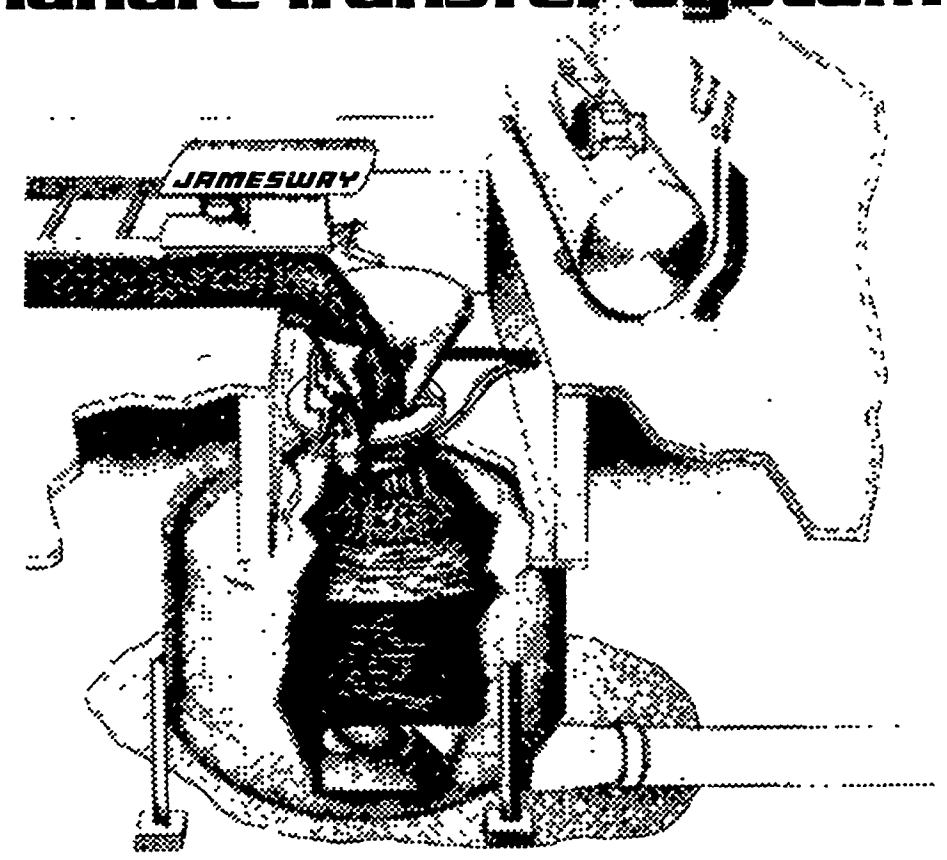
One part of the problem is that no one — as far as I know — is spending a lot of time spot checking dairy product quality at the retail level and coming down on the offending parties.

If the Milk Marketing Program proposal is approved, it will certainly be a necessity to have a quality checking program, whether the money for such inspection comes from the general tax fund, through the Department of Agriculture or from the $9 million promotion fund.

A Little is a Lot

Speaking of promotion, someone has already figured out that it would take an increase of only two ounces of milk or less than a half ounce of cheese per day per person in Pennsylvania, to pay back the producers through increased milk prices for all the money they may pay into the fund in one year.

JAMESWAY® Air Pressure Manure Transfer System



Does hard work for you

Whatever your herd size—50, 150 or more—let air pressure move manure to storage in minutes. It's simple: your gutter cleaner, alley scraper or tractor-scraper, delivers manure "as is" to a steel holding tank. A twist of your wrist then seals the tank; manure agitates and moves to the storage basin, as much as 300 ft. away, for later spreading. No rams, gears, reducers or delays.

See us for systems and service that help make the good life better.

Goat breeders prepare

Get ready — here come the kids

LANCASTER — The Alpine doe seems restless as her five month gestation nears its end. The 2-year-old goat has undergone dramatic changes in the last few weeks from the accelerated growth of her unborn kids.

After much pacing and pawing, she selects a site away from her herdmates and settles down. Her uterus contracts more frequently as the birth of her young is minutes away.

The scene will be repeated thousands of times as goat breeders gear up for the kidding season which generally runs from February to April. To insure a healthy kid crop this season, breeders should meet several nutrition and management objectives when maintaining the late lactation or dry doe.

According to the Penn State Veterinary Science Extension, goat breeders should accomplish the following:

- Dry off the udder and prevent mastitis;
- Have the doe in good physical condition for kidding;
- Bring the doe through kidding with the least possible damage to her udder and minimum of stress;
- Prevent pregnancy disease (ketosis) before and after kidding;
- Prevent post-kidding reproductive tract infections;
- Have the doe's digestive system in condition to give her a good appetite and enable her to eat a large amount of feed for maximum milk production.

A pregnant doe should be dry for at least 50 days before kidding for normal production in the future lactation.

To dry off a doe milking less than five pounds a day, simply stop milking her However, high producers may need other practices to halt the milk let down mechanism

The Extension suggests withholding grain and succulent feed. Instead, feed poor quality hay and cut down water intake for a couple of days When she drops below five pounds daily, stop milking her It helps to keep the doe away from the sights and sounds of milking

After does have been dried off at least five days, hand strip any coagulated milk remaining in the udder.

The buttermilk-like fluid remaining during the first week or two following drying off, is normal and should be stripped During the remainder of the dry period, a small quantity of honey-colored fluid is also normal

Mastitis prevention is a key management factor during the dry period, beginning with the teat ends

Carefully examine teat ends for evidence of chapping or irritation A few days treatment with a non-irritant teat dip or several applications of antibiotic ointment may be worthwhile. Treat any quarters where there is any evidence of teat injury with a dry treatment antibiotic infusion. Consult your veterinarian before using any drug.

A proper nutrition program helps set the stage for healthy kids and does that will breed back in six to seven months.

Late lactation does should be fed a minimum of grain and a maximum of forage. Goat owners should be careful to prevent fattening in these does.

Protein requirements are relatively high for the doe in the last four weeks of pregnancy. The Extension recommends feeding at least a pound daily of the same feed she will receive after freshening.

Dry doe maintanence includes mixed grass and legume hay. If browse is available, let her eat all she wants. Coarse fiber material restores rumen capacity and function back to normal in does which have been fed a relatively large amount of grain and high quality forage during the previous laction. Dry does need at least the same percent protein in the concentrate fed as is fed to the milking herd to prevent udder congestion at freshening, which is generally caused by protein deficiency. Limited salt intake, (less than one percent in grain) helps reduce risk of udder congestion.

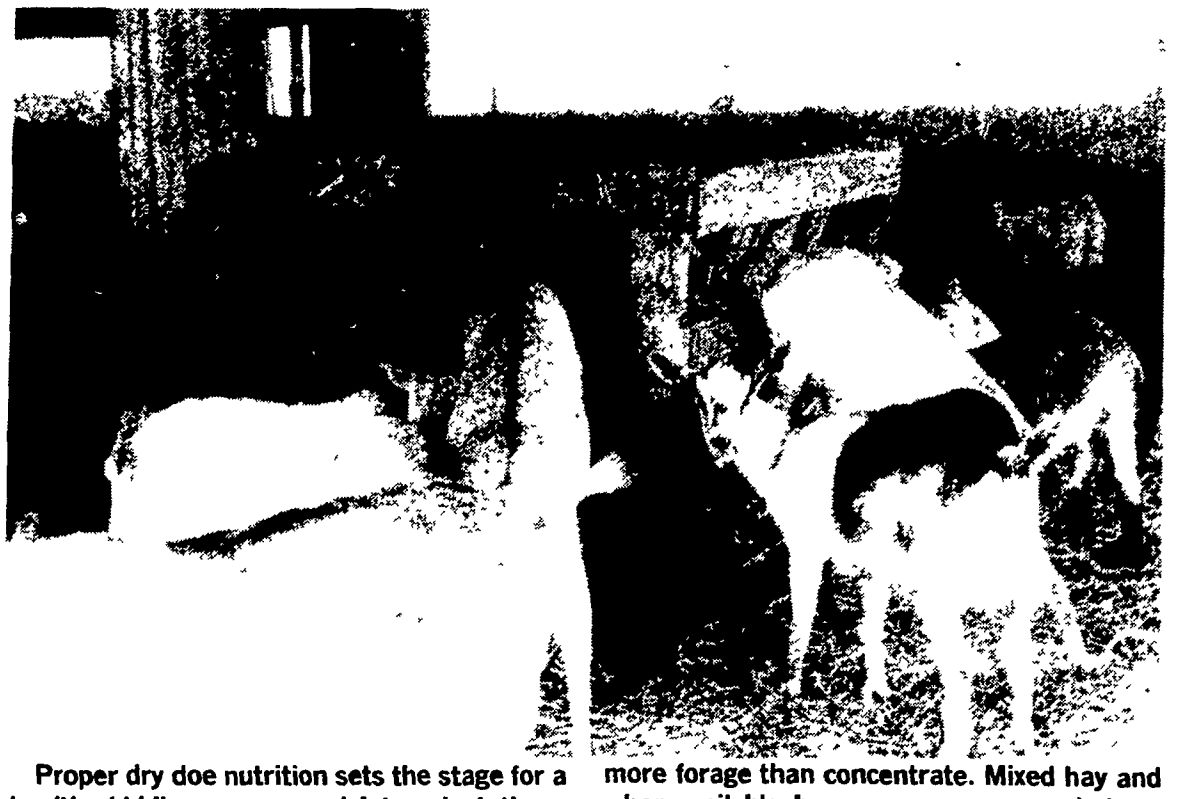
However, the Extension cautions against does losing condition in the last month of pregnancy as this may result in some degree of ketosis.

A correctly fed dry doe is in lean active condition, alert and hungry for food.

Goats raised in the Eastern U.S., a selenium deficient region, should receive selenium injections at least four weeks prior to kidding. The Extension also suggests injections of Vitamins A, D and E. The combination of selenium and vitamins appear to promote good uterine involution following kidding and are helpful for preventing reproductive tract infections in the doe. Consult a veterinarian for injection schedule and source of selenium and vitamins.

Does can experience discomfort with heavy, tight udders prior to kidding. Pressure can be relieved by milking her out a few days before kidding. However, save a quart of colustrum for the kid's first feeding. Many good udders

(Turn to Page D14)



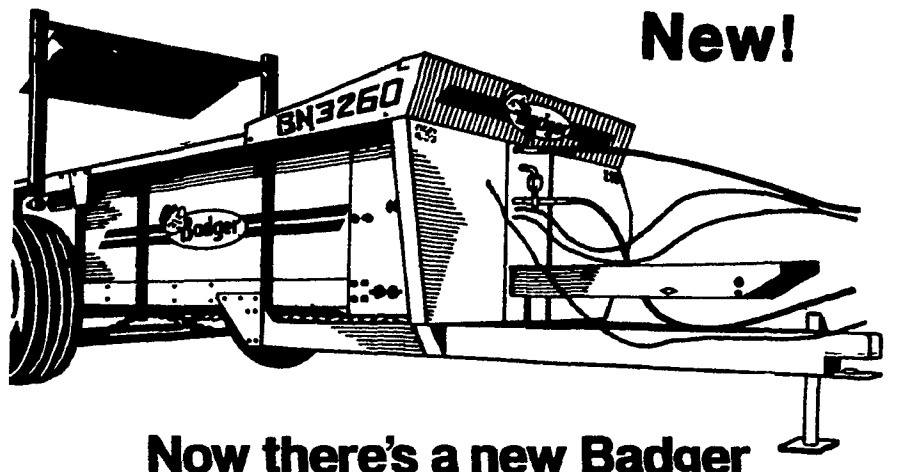
Proper dry doe nutrition sets the stage for a healthy kidding season and future lactations. The bulk of a dry doe's diet should include more forage than concentrate. Mixed hay and when available, browse, are recommended.

Just minutes old, this Alpine buck kid unsteadily rises to the occasion with a little maternal urging.

A meal awaits him, but not here.

"Am I getting close?"

"Eureka, I've found it!" For all his efforts, the newborn buck is rewarded with a hearty meal, a bellyful of colostrum.



New!

Now there's a new Badger Spreader with more capacity and a guarantee that can't be beat!

For years manufacturers of manure spreaders have bragged about heaped capacities That's fine, as long as you're handling manure that can be heaped

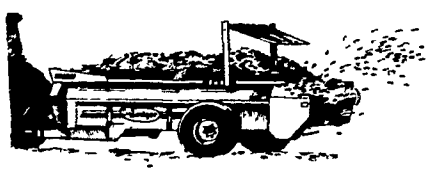
But today, more farmers are working with liquid and semi-solid manure And no matter how hard you try, you just can't make a pile out of soup

That's why Badger designed their new BN3210 and BN3260 Manure Spreaders with extra struck level capacity The 3210 has a 220 bushel heaped capacity, 143 cu ft struck capacity The 3260 holds 260 bushels heaped and 166 cu ft struck.

Therefore our cost per cubic foot is less!

But Badger puts more in their spreaders than just space There's treated wood sides and floor that won't ever rust out Unitized welded frame and reinforced undercarriage

BADGER SPREADERS ARE SO STRONG, THEIR WOOD SIDES AND FLOOR ARE GUARANTEED FOR AS LONG AS YOU OWN THEM.



And Badger Spreaders can be customized with exciting options like 1000 RPM PTO, hydraulic liquid end gate, top beater and two great aprons in 667X pintle chain or T-Bar Type are ruined because they cannot carry the extreme weight of milk and swelling before freshening.

Udder supports can also be used during this period as well as massaging the udder with warm water. Ice water may be helpful if the udder is hot and tender.

Does about to kid should be placed in a maternity stall, made of material which can be scrubbed clean and disinfected between each use. The Extension recommends using a dairy sanitizer or other non-irritant, non-odorsome disinfectants. Kids should be born in a draft free, dry place

As kidding approaches, the doe may exhibit foot stamping, fluid discharge, discomfort and milk letdown

If labor fails to produce anything within a half hour, the doeshould be examined. If a veterinarian cannot be present, the person attending the doe should wash the vulva with mild soap and water. If the water bag ruptures, birth shoud occur withing minutes.

However, if upon examination with two, clean fingers, the fluid sac appears whole, give the animal more time.

If anything but a normal forward or backward presentation exists, call a veterinarian.

When the kid or kids arrive, dip the naval cords in ordinary tincture of Iodine as soon as possible. Wash the udder to make sure the all-important first meal is a clean one. It may be necessary to hand feed the kids, if they have not nursed in the first 30 minutes.

Many dairy goat owners remove the kids as soon as they are cleaned and never let them nurse their dams. However, it is necessary to milk out the udder every time let down is stimulated Kids may not be able to handle all the milk let down by a high producing doe or may overeat and develop diarrhea

The Extension urges owners to be sure all of the placenta is passed. If the doe continues straining past the first 24 hours and if any placenta is evident, consult a veterinarian.

Following kidding, a normal healthy doe should be hungry. If she is listless or refuses to eat after 12 hours, check her temperature and udder. Do not feed any tonics or medicines. Instead feed half the amount of grain fed the day before kidding and all the good forage she will eat.

Gradually increase grain feeding as milk production increases or until the doe peaks in production.

Adequate preparation before she kids and proper care later are the necessary building blocks for a successful goat herd, whether it's a 100-head dairy or a half-dozen backyard does.

The Alpine labors for only a few minutes before the first buck kid appears. Before he's dry, his brother enters the world. Instinctively, she begins licking first one, then the other. Within the half-hour, the babies will try out their unsteady legs as they search for their first meal. — DMT

NWF poll calls for more regulation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Federation has reported that in a survey of more than 25,000 of its members, 73 percent of them said the country has "too little" environmental regulation while only 5 percent said it has "too much." The remaining 21 percent felt the U.S. has "just about the right amount" of environmental controls, the conservation group said.

The 73 percent pro-regulation vote was up 11 percent from last year, when 62 percent of NWF's members, answering the same question, said there was too little regulation, 11 percent felt there was too much, and 25 percent thought existing regulations were adequate.

The question on environmental controls was asked for the first time in the annual NWF survey last year, after Ronald Reagan had made "overregulation" an issue in the 1980 campaign. In another membership survey last year the NWF found that its members voted two-to-one for Reagan over Jimmy Carter for President.

The regulation question was one of nine put to NWF's members this year, the Federation said. It was tabulated and reported first, according to Jay D. Hair, executive vice president of the organization, because a regulatory "reform" bill is awaiting floor action in the U.S. Senate and "we thought the Congress should know how a broad cross-section of Americans feels about environmental protection rules."

The results of the membership survey will also guide the Federation, with its 4.2 million members and supporters, in setting its policies for the coming year when it holds its Annual Meeting from March 19 through 21 in Milwaukee, Wis.

40 years of proof

Since 1940, Gehl has been building field choppers and forage harvesters with one thought in mind ...performance. And, year after year, thousands of satisfied owners prove that we know how to use that specialized experience to build better machines. Today, Gehl concentrates those 40 years of chopping know-how into three fuel-efficient, high-capacity forage harvesters:

Capacity King 1250. The largest capacity pull-type harvester on the market Gehl's exclusive 24" spinner delivery system keeps forage moving with no cross augers to plug The giant, 9-knife, 25½" cylinder gives a quality cut And the new cutterbar adjustment is the easiest anywhere. In-head hydraulic knife sharpener and electric controls are standard too

New mid-range 1000 gives you the high capacity you'd expect from the big 21" cylinder and fast spinner delivery system Like the 1250, standard features include the in-head hydraulic knife sharpener, adjustable axles, one-way shear bolt protection and attachment down-stop.

Fuel saver 750 tackles just about any chopping job. Uses less horsepower per ton chopped than many bigger harvesters. Uses less fuel The 8-knife cutterhead is set into the blower compartment for smooth, continuous material flow. Add Gehl's patented in-head hydraulic knife sharpener for even more cutting efficiency.

Prove to yourself that there's no substitute for Gehl's 40 years of forage harvester experience. See your Gehl dealer soon

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett

Renting A Farm

Two of the most usual questions I get at this time of the year is (a) how much rent can I charge for my farm or land and (b) how much rent can I pay for a farm or land.

The answer is never simple and always complicated. It usually begins with "it depends".

Local Custom

Local supply and demand and local custom are the biggest factors. They overshadow what should be he most important factors: productivity, condition of buildings, and size of farm

For example: in central Pennsylvania land may rent for 15 to 80 dollars per acre. A guideline I use to get prospective tennants and landlords to a starting point is as follows:

- Land - three to five percent of the agricultural value of the land plus real estate taxes;
- Buildings - eight to 12 percent of the use value of buildings;
- Equipment - 15 to 18 percent of the appraised value of building equipment such as silo unloaders or pipeline milkers.

Agricultural Value

What is the agricultural value of land? Based on returns it would vary from year to year depending on prices and the weather. Forget sale price because it does a poor job in most of Pennsylvania reflecting agricultural value.

I use the following criteria - productive capability, type of crop to be grown, accessibility, size of tract, and ease of working. For the central Pennsylvania in which I work this translates into the following values:

- Top farm land - $1200 to $1600 per acre;
- Productive land that requres conservation practices and/or has accessibility or location drawbacks - $800 to $1200 per acre;
- Good land that needs some attention but is capable of above average production (probably requires more energy or management than the above 2 categories) - $600 to $1000 per acre;
- Average or below land in productive capability (depends on requirements and drawbacks) - $400 to $800 per acre.

How Much Can A Tennant Afford

I believe that this is a most vital question to ask. The amount will depend on a number of factors.

- The management ability of the tenant.
- Debt payments being made by the tenant. Example: dairy farmers should probably keep the total of debt payments and rents to a figure no more than 35 percent of their gross mile check.
- Size of rented farm.
- Type of enterprise that provides the tenants primary income.
- Predictable capability of the rented sources.
- Distance of rented farm from home base.

A good exercise in calculating debt repayment ability can also answer the question of "how much rent can I afford?"

Following are the top ten herds for November in Cecil County participating in the DHI program These results are based on a Fat-Corrected Milk basis. FCM is a method devised for converting yields to a 3.5% fat-corrected milk basis. FCM allows the comparison of milk production records, varying widely in percentage of butterfat and thus differing in energy values.

Boyle to retire April 1

UNIVERSITY PARK, — John S. Boyle, a Penn State faculty member since 1949, will retire April 1 as professor emeritus of plant pathology.

Boyle's major research at Penn State has focused on virus diseases of fruit and vegetable crops. He pioneered work in the experimental transmission of viruses from woody to herbaceous plants. This led to a better understanding of the chemical and physical properties of viruses infecting cherry, peach, and apple trees.

Most recently, he showed that tobacco mosaic virus can induce two completely different diseases in tomato and pepper plants. Differences in symptoms are shown on foliage and fruits of infected plants.

Boyle has had extensive international experience in dealing with crop production problems related to diseases. In 1964-1965 he was a Fullbright lecturer at Assuit University in Upper Egypt.

In 1973 and again in 1976 he was on three-month assignments in Uruguay, assisting in plant disease evaluation and establishment of a program to control virus diseases.

In 1975 he studied virus diseases of tomatoes at the Glasshouse Crops Research Centre in Kinsealy, Ireland. This work was supported by a Fulbright research grant.

In 1980 he served in Sri Lanka on a three-month assignment with the U.S. Agency for International Development. While there, he taught a course at the University of Peradeniya describing virus diseases of plants. He also evaluated virus disease problems among minor export crops and vegetables.

Take a minute to prevent accidents

UNIVERSITY PARK — Studies show that accidents cause a considerable loss of time and money in dairy operations and most of these mishaps can be prevented. Here are some safety suggestions that could help, according to the Penn State Cooperative Extension.

- Wear safety shoes or boots with metal toe boxes and non-skid soles.
- Approach animals gently after getting their attention, so they are not startled.
- Use restraint facilities when treating animals.
- Keep floors and steps clear of accumulated feed, chaff or manure to minimize the chance of falls. Have a designated storage place for hand tools such as forks, shovels and brooms, and keep them out of the way.
- Never trust a bull, Use a nose ring restraint when he must be moved.
- Keep medications and other chemical products out of the reach of children and animals.
- Keep small children out of animals quarters, lots, bins and silos. Remove access ladders and keep the entrance gates and doors closed.
- Keep guards in place on portable machinery and mechanized feeding equipment.
- Provide continuous ventilation for under-floor manure pits. Ventilate a manure pit before entering it. Never enter during or immediately after agitation. Unless the facility is empty and free of toxic gases, wear an air-supplying breathing device. Use a lifeline with help standing by that can lift you out if necessary.
- If you must enter a newly filled silo, run the blower 10 minutes to expel any toxic gases. Open access doors down to the silage level.
- Wear a dust mask when working with moldy hay or grain, cleaning bins or sweeping dusty areas.
- Keep the electrical system and equipment in good condition.
